Subs Get 17 More Jap Ships

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP) — Destruction of 17 more Japanese ves sels, including one escort craft, by American submarines was reported by the Nav y today, raising to 38 the enemy shipping losses announced in two days.

Marshal Rommel

REPORT ROMMEL WOUNDED

By WES GALLAGHER

CANISY, France, July 29 (AP)— A senior American officer said today prisoners reported Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was severely wounded in a strafing attack near Lisieux, east of Caen, and a French woman who has been behind the enemy lines said Rommel died later in a Bernay hospital.

A German captain told his captors Rommel's car was thrown into a ditch and he was unconscious for six hours. This account said the incident took place about two weeks ago and Rommel still was in a critical condition. The woman, a member of an organization equivalent to the Red Cross for dealing with war prisoners, located the attack near Falaise, British front.

Yanks Trap 7 Divisions

By GLADWIN HILL

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, July 29 (AP)—Slashing columns of U. S. armor sprang a trap nine miles southeast of captured Coutances today and the remnants of seven fleeing German divisions including Tiger tanks pounded against it in a futile attempt to break out. Cut off by a 30-mile line of tanks and guns from Canisy, southwest to Sienne river below Lengrone, an unknown number of Field Marshal Rommel's forces were under one of the most merciless air assaults of the war while their comrades from the south tried to break through to extricate them.

Dive bombers wheeled over the scene of burning towns and billowing clouds of dust and smoke, artillery and mortar crews poured in their fire, and tanks ran down infantry trying to break away and join the rest of the fleeing enemy forces.

NAZI DEAD IN HEAPS

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher from a front line position said none could tell how many enemy were in this inferno of bombs and shells, but among 2000 prisoners taken in the last 24 hours were elements of seven divisions. German dead lay in heaps.

As enemy broadcasts conceded a withdrawal of its "entire western wing," other U. S. armored forces slashed on down the Normandy coast to within gunshot of the next German escape hatch at Brehal, 11 miles south of Coutances.

Rommel was drawing on fresh troops and tanks, not only to break the trap but to try to stem the offensive imperiling his positions which block the way to the heart of France.

Simultaneously, Tiger tanks and other armored remnants by-passed by lightning American columns, opened up in an attempt to break out of woods west of Le Mesnil-Herman. They were repulsed by Shermans in tank to tank duels among the hedgerows.

Rommel's armor supply was depleted by incessant aerial attack, which in three days has knocked out 250 enemy tanks.

Summoning reinforcements from east and west, Rommel was stiffening the resistance, however, and was trying to keep the tide of Allied armor from the coastal routes over which his battered divisions are withdrawing.

But one American column drove through Lengrone, only six miles from Brehal, where the coastal roads converge, and moved on to bring the town within range of U. S. guns.

Brehan is 11 miles below Coutances and 2½ miles from the sea.

Lt. Gen. Bradley sent yet another armored force to within a mile of Percy, 15 miles southeast of Coutances.

South of Coutances, which collapsed last night without resistance, another spearhead pressed 2½ miles on through Lengronne. Mop-up squads northwest of Coutances captured St. Malo-de la Lande.

To the east a third major drive pressed on down the Vire river valley toward the city of Vire, old capital of Normandy.

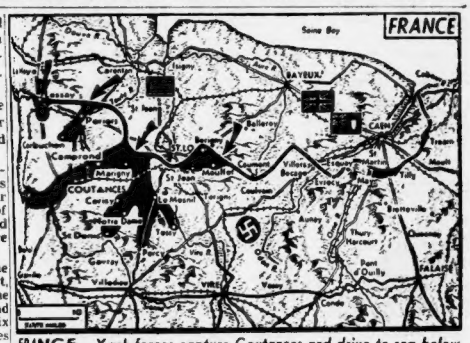
More than 100 duels raged between American Sherman tanks and great 60-ton German Tiger tanks, by-passed in the rush of American armor in a high forested area between Canisy and Notre Dame-De Cenilly.

Another American column to the east occupied St. Denis-Le Gast, ten miles from the coast and nine miles south of Coutances, and sped on through Lengronne, six miles from Brehal and eight miles south of Coutances.

Forces mopping up north and west of Coutances captured St. Malo de la Lande.

Lt. Gen. Bradley's men also pushed to within two mile of Percy, midway between the ocean an dthe Vire river.

East of St. Lo other forces captured the city of St. Jean-des-Baisants.



FRANCE—Yank forces capture Coutances and drive to sea below Sienne river estuary . . . as other troops take St. Denis and Tessy while clearing the St. Lo-Bayeux road. Black areas are gains in the Normandy offensive, which started last Tuesday.

Any enemy forces remaining above Coutances were doomed by a spearhead of tanks that reached the Atlantic below the Sienne estuary south of Coutances.

U. S. Heavies Hit Nazi Oil Again

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—A force of 1100 American heavy bombers struck Germany's Leuna synthetic oil plant at Merseburg for the second successive day this morning, attacked the northwestern port of Bremen and raked airdromes at Juvincourt and Laen-Couvron.

The German occupied village of Scrignac in the Brest peninsula, believed to be a German headquarters, was wiped out by RAF Spitfire fighter bombers in an attack at breakfast time this morning.

10-Bomb Per Acre Normandy Deluge

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—A high air force authority announced today that the American breakthrough in Normandy was preceded by a new type of saturation bombing which covered an area of 10 square miles with 65,951 bombs dropped from 2423 planes.

"Some Germans were wandering around in a daze two or three days later," the spokesman said.

An average of 10 bombs were dropped on each acre.

Gens. Ryder, Harmon Transferred to U. S.

ROME, July 29 (AP)—Transfer of two of the best known American divisional commanders in the Italian war theater to the United States for new duties was announced today by Allied headquarters.

They are Maj. Gen. Charles Ryder, commander of the 34th Infantry Division, and Maj. Gen. Ernest N. Harmon, commander of the First Armored Division.

Reds Shelling Warsaw Suburb, Peril Jelgava

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—Berlin announced today a Soviet penetration to the Latvian rail hub of Jelgava which threatens to trap Nazi garrisons in the northern Baltics as Col. Gen. Kazakov's heavy artillery shelled Warsaw's distant suburbs in furtherance of the Red army Polish plains offensive.

A Stockholm dispatch quoted a Wilhelmstrasse spokesman as saying there would be no further German stand east of Warsaw, but great battles will be fought between the Vistula and the Oder—or between Warsaw and Berlin."

Russian troops on a wide front below Warsaw have reached the Vistula, which passes the Polish capital. The Oder flows through eastern Germany from below Breslau to Stettin, winding at one point to within 35 miles of Berlin.

Dispatches from Moscow told of the opening of artillery fire against the German forces in the outlying settlements before Warsaw and British accounts said the city itself had been sighted.

Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore said Marshal Rokossovsky's advance detachments possibly had "reached hill positions where the capital of Poland is in plain view just beyond the Vistula."

The German high command communique, broadcast from Berlin, disclosed the Soviet penetration to Jelgava, which would practically bisect the Baltics.

The German bulletin said a Nazi counterattack had thrown the Russian vanguard out of Jelgava, 120 miles northwest of Daugavpils (Dvinsk), and 21 miles southwest of Riga on an arm of the Baltic sea.

The Germans declared they still held Siedlce, 50 miles east of Warsaw, but Russian dispatches said Rokossovsky's right wing was moving on the city to join forces battling Germans in the streets after capturing Brest Litovsk. Dispatches did not locate the Russian spearhead positions.

POLAND—Arrows show three Red drives in Warsaw area, one reaching beyond Kolbiel, less than 20 miles from the Polish capital. Reds, in taking Ceglow, cut rail line from Siedlce.

Reprisal Executions

BERN, Switzerland, July 29 (AP)—French Partisans have executed 10 German prisoners in retaliation for Nazi slayings of wounded and captured French patriots, a Partisan unit communique announced.

Huge Exodus Jam in London

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—Holiday-seeking crowds which began to pour out of London Friday afternoon jammed platforms of several large railway stations today and stretched, six abreast, for nearly a mile outside of some of them.

Some persons stood in line more than nine hours, waiting to board trains, and authorities said nothing like it had been seen before. Most of the passengers were headed to areas west of London, which have not been reached by the Germans' flying bombs.

172d U. S. Navy Ship Loss Told

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Loss of the mine sweeper Swerve was announced by the Navy today, bringing to 172 the number of American naval vessels lost since the war started.

The 890-ton minesweeper, the Navy said, was sunk in the Mediterranean recently as the result of enemy action.

No information was given on the number of casualties aboard the minesweeper which carried a normal complement of 60 officers and men.

The Swerve, commissioned at Philadelphia in January last, was under command of Lt. Andrew Morthland, 33, of Los Angeles, former reporter for the San Francisco Chronicle. Morthland is listed as a survivor.

Touring King Sees British Pilots Attack

WITH THE RAF ON THE EIGHTH ARMY FRONT IN ITALY, July 27 (Delayed) (AP)—King George VI of England, on a tour of the Italian battlefront, reviewed British pilots stationed with the Eighth Army today and watched them take off and return from a successful bobming mission against a fuel dump south of Florence, only a few miles away.

Allies Crack Florence Lines

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ROME, July 29 (AP)—Desert-hardened New Zealand veterans have cracked Nazi defenses south of Florence and knifed their way into the last mountain line only five miles from the historic city, Allied headquarters announced today.

The break-through provoked strong German counter-attacks, and bitter fighting was reported in the hills overlooking Florence.

The momentum of the savage counter-thrusts by Nazi infantry and Tiger tanks swept the leading company of New Zealanders back 600 yards, but official reports said the enemy then was brought to a halt and positions in the hills were being firmly held.

The New Zealand advance took off from a bridgehead over the small Pesa river at Cerbaia.

The threat to Florence also grew as South African troops crossed the Greve river, two miles south of Impruneta, which is only five and a half miles from the city's boundaries.

Aside from the bitter fighting in the New Zealanders' sector there was scant fighting of consequence yesterday along the remainder of the Italian front.

Official reports said the situation on the Fifth Army front was unchanged, with American and German artillery continuing a duel across the lower Arno river. No mention was made of whether either side was shelling the city of Pisa after a plea by Pope Pius for consideration of its historical and religious significance.

One extreme left wing of the Eighth Army was within two miles of Empoli, on the south banks of the Arno nearly 30 miles east of Pisa and within 2½ miles of Monte Lupo.

Superforts Hit Heart Of Japan's Arsenal

By JOHN GROVER

A SUPERFORTRESS BASE IN WESTERN CHINA, July 29 (AP)—Giant, far-reaching American B-29 Superfortress bombers struck heavily today at the heart of Japan's "arsenal of greater East Asia," raining explosives on the heavy industry city of Anshan in the Mukden area of eastern Manchuria. Huge columns of smoke sprang up from the bombed works and it was estimated it would take 12 months to rebuild the installations.

Taking off in favorable weather, the great bombers of the world-ranging U. S. 20th Air Force loosed their explosives from high altitude over the targets in a powerful smash at installations important to Japanese munitions manufacture.

It was the first American air attack on Manchuria, the first daylight assault from high altitude for the new giant planes, and their third blow against major Japanese installations.

(The Japanese-controlled Hsingking home radio declared one B-29 was shot down over Anshan. The broadcast said raiders also had penetrated into the "Dairen area" near Port Arthur and were in "two groups consisting of several planes each." A U. S. War Department announcement of the action did not mention any losses.)

RADIO SILENCE BROKEN

The Superfortresses took off from this base in a blazing-red dawn. One diversionary force headed for Chenghsien, bottleneck of the Peiping-Hankow railway in northern Honan province, where it bombed the railyards which the Japanese are attempting feverishly to rebuild.

The others headed northward, and hours later the radio silence was broken by a flashed code word disclosing that the explosives had been dropped on the target area and that the bombers were started on the long journey homeward.

(The Tokyo radio, heard by U. S. government monitors, said the important industrial city of Fenhsihu, site of important coal fields, also had been attacked.

Anshan, city of 200,000 in the Mukden industrial region of Manchuria, is one of the most important producers of chemical by-products vital to Japan's manufacture of munitions. The mills there are the second largest producers of pig iron and the third largest of rolled steel and steel ingots in the empire.

At the same time a communique from Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters announced that American Liberators in a sea sweep had sunk a 4000-ton Japanese naval vessel and two freighters and damaged another freighter off Hongkong.

SMOKE BLANKETS TARGETS

On the two previous operations on the B-29's, major installations also were the targets—at Yawata on June 15 and at Yawata and Sasebo, third largest Japanese naval base, on July 7.

Both these attacks on Kyushu island in the Japanese homeland had been night, low-level smashes.

Huge billows of smoke from the industrial area at Anshan blackened the target, which sticks out prominently in the Manchurian plain. It was estimated officially, that it will take 12 months to rebuild some of the intricate installations.

The code word, "Mary," which told the world of the first American air raid on Manchuria, was chosen by Col. Roy Lynn Holton of Kansas, communications officer of the 20th bomber command, in honor of his wife.

Later "Judy" and Alyce" were flashed by other squadrons. "Judy" was chosen by Maj. Selby Calkins for his seven-year-old daughter, who lives in Detroit, and "Alyce" was selected by Maj. Francis B. Morgan, for his wife, who lives in Miami, Fla.

Army Shifts Italians From So. Boston to Fort

Italian service units, made up of former prisoners of war, were ordered transferred from Camp McKay, South Boston, to Ft. Andrews in Boston Harbor today. This followed several weeks of incidents involving the Italians and widespread protests over their alleged "coddling."

Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles of the First Service Command announced the transfer. He declined to say whether it was a result of the furore which resulted in a demand by the South Boston Citizens' Ass'n for the men's removal, and protests by Veteran organizations.

Gen. Miles said the transfer would not make any difference in the present policy of allowing the members of the service units to be entertained by organizations which wish to do so.

FERRY BOAT SERVICE

He also stated that the transfer would not affect their work at the Boston Port of Embarkation.

The Italians will be transported to and from the Army base each day by ferry boat, he said.

The transfer has been in the works for several weeks, according to First Service Command officials, who revealed that the delay in its accomplishment was due to the need for obtaining several clearances from the War Department.

The removal of all the Italians from Camp McKay leaves the area unoccupied but according to Gen. Miles the camp would be used as quarters for any other port battalions brought here.

STRIKE STARTED TROUBLE

Trouble with the former prisoners started when some of the units staged a "strike" while loading ship cargo. The leaders of the demonstration were ordered put back in the prisoner of war status.

Several melees followed between the former prisoners and civilians and the South Boston Citizens' Ass'n entered the picture with a demand for their removal.

Protests also came from various other organizations.

Two Carrier Forces Hit Palau, Other Area

By Associated Press

In addition to the raid of U. S. Superfortresses today — Tokyo radio had other bad news to report—an attack by 500 carrier-based planes upon Palau Friday, and a simultaneous strike by 20 carrier planes "south of Palau." There was no Allied confirmation of these raids.

American carrier planes attacked Palau, 530 miles east of the Philippines, Tuesday and Wednesday, destroying 26 Japanese planes and sinking a destroyer and seven smaller vessels.

In the Marianas, Americans on Guam killed 2000 Japanese in beating down an enemy counter-attack early Tuesday, and then moved to within a third of a mile of Agana, the capital city.

Marines on Tinian, 125 miles north of Guam, advanced three miles with the loss of less than a score of men, and took possession of all the northern half of the island. Its conquest cost the lives of fewer than 100 Marines. Japanese deaths were at the ratio of 20 to 1.

Loss of Pingsiang, 95 miles northeast of encircled and battered Hengyang in Hunan province, was acknowledged by the Chinese High Command tonight, but a communique said 10 separate attacks upon Hengyang by Japanese troops trying desperately to capture the Canton-Hankow rail junction, were thrown back.

On China's Yunnan front, Chinese troops fought into the suburbs of Tengchung, main Japanese base.

HEAVY NIP DEATH TOLL

A Chinese-American composite bombardment wing claimed destruction of 34 Japanese planes on the ground at an airfield near Tungting Lake in northern Hunan Friday.

The increasingly disorganized state of Japanese resistance on the India-Burma border indicated the Allies soon would be able to cross the frontier.

Germans Agree To Quit Bulgaria

ISTANBUL, July 27 (Delayed) (AP)—The government of Premier Ivan Bagrianov has asked Germany to evacuate all German armed forces from Bulgaria and there are indications the request may be heeded, according to information received here today. The Bulgars were reported to have told the Germans the government would defend the nation against attack "from any quarter."

The Germans at first refused to grant the Bulgarian request, the report said, on the ground their other satellites might make the same demand and prestige was involved, but developments suggest this stand was reconsidered.

The Bulgars meanwhile are granting Soviet demands for establishment of Russian consulates in most of the country's chief ports and towns.

These advices from Bulgaria came in the midst of others that Bulgaria was negotiating with the Allies, including the United States, in an effort to get out of the war and reports that a break in economic and diplomatic relations between Germany and Turkey was imminent.

German Ambassador Franz von Papen hurriedly returned to Ankara yesterday from Istanbul.

Revere in Drive On Mashers

Molesters of women at Revere Beach became the targets of a drive by Metropolitan police today to rid the resort of their annoyances by harsh penalties.

Fines of $100 each have been imposed in Chelsea district court on 34 men arrested on such charges, and one second offender was assessed $200 by Judge Frank D. Crowley, who promised full cooperation with the police drive.

Lt. William Kiniry, who is heading the campaign, said that numerous complaints from women at the beach were responsible for the increased activity. Plainclothesmen are on duty constantly.

Mother of 7 Stabbed

Suffering from a stab wound in the chest, Mrs. Florence Savard, 41, mother of seven children, of Leavitt st., Saugus, was taken to Lynn Hospital today in a serious condition. Police were summoned to the home of her father, Carl Peterson, in Central pl. by Dr. Priscilla Flockton.

Dies Links White House, PAC

By RAY RICHARDS
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 29—Affiliation of the national Administration and the Political Action Committee of the Congress of Industrial Organizations gave promise today of producing one of the worst political scandals in the history of the American government.

An investigators' report charging illegal participation by at least 72 leading New Deal government employes in the work of the CIO-PAC to re-elect President Roosevelt has been made public by Rep. Martin Dies, chairman of the House committee to investigate un-American activities.

The White House is deeply involved.

At the committee's offices it was said the apparent long-term plan of the persons involved is to change the American form of government to a hybrid cross of Fascism and Communism, but that the committee is immediately concerned with violations of the Hatch Act forbidding federal employes to take part in politics.

Written by Robert E. Stripling, chief of staff for the committee, the 14-page report declares the CIO-PAC is the "political arm of the New Deal administration."

EXPOSES TELEGRAMS

It backs up the statement by exposing an extensive series of telegrams and telephone calls between the CIO-PAC headquarters at New York and the White House and 25 other important government agencies in Washington.

All bear on political activity for the fourth term, the report shows.

The report cites the Hatch act to show all government workers concerned must be dismissed, or, if they already have taken leave from federal service to devote themselves wholly to the CIO-PAC this year, they can never return to their government jobs.

Specifically, the report may put a heavy finger of responsibility on Atty.-Gen. Biddle, whose opinions protecting the New Deal have been notorious, and who recently crowned past efforts by rendering a judgment that the law commonly understood to apply to excessive campaign contributions does not apply to those of the CIO-PAC for the benefit of the 16 years in the White House campaign.

MAY CALL HILLMAN

The Stripling report has been sent to each member of the Dies Committee for a ballot on the question of sending it direct to the attorney general for investigation or authorizing the committee to continue the probe itself at formal hearings.

Hearings would be preceded by issuance of committee subpoenas for Sidney Hillman, Russian-born chairman of the CIO-PAC, and many others.

It is held likely Hillman and other CIO officials will follow past policy, and, under New Deal protection, refuse to appear.

But Stripling said government employes who hope to hold their jobs would hardly be likely to anger their source of pay, Congress, by showing contempt for a congressional subpoena, and that many important federal officials probably would testify.

The report lists the case of C. B. Baldwin, former administrator of the Farm Security Administration, as typical and prominent among the instances in which an individual held a government job and a CIO-PAC job at the same time.

It is charged in the report Baldwin became assistant chairman of the PAC on Nov. 21, 1943, but did not go off the farm Security Administration payroll until April 11, 1944, about five months later.

CITES TEXAN'S CASE

The report cites as a similar instance the case of C. A. McPeak of Dallas, present Texas director of the PAC.

McPeak, it is stated, was on the payroll of the Federal government as a labor representative until May 26, 1944, but on the previous April 7 was directed by Hillman to represent the PAC at a Dallas meeting and to come to New York

Today's Laughs

Calamity Howl

PITTSBORO, Ind., July 29 (AP)—It was bad enough, said Franklin Schenck, to be pinned beneath his automobile in an accident.

But what really made him sore was the fact he was in the thick of a poison ivy patch.

Backfiring Prank

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Bob Derby's life-of-the-party prank backfired—literally.

The 26-year-old Tacoman told hospital attendants that he prepared a "blank" cartridge to explode under the chair of a friend at a party. He made the mistake of trying it on himself first.

A police ambulance took him, lying face down, to the hospital.

Long Time No See

CAIRO, Ill., July 29 (AP)—Frank Karcher looked at an envelope the mailman had just delivered and said: "I'll bet that is from a roommate of mine at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. I'd know that handwriting anywhere."

Karcher was correct, although his former roommate, Gail Neal, now of Wharton, Texas, hadn't corresponded with him for 29 years. Neal's letter, without apology for his delay, began:

"Dear Karcher: I am answering your letter written March 18, 1915. Hope you are alive and healthy."

Luring Aroma

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS, July 29 (AP) — Lt. Gen. Walter H. Krueger, always proud of his Army bakers, has another reason to praise their technique.

A Jap captured at Toem on the north coast of New Guinea said that the aroma from the bakery was so overpowering he had to come in and surrender.

Trophies AWOL

PHILADELPHIA, July 29 (AP)—"Will you please chase the monkeys out of my yard," phoned an irate gardener to police.

The cops suspected monkey business but investigated. They found two midget monkeys — five inches tall—and later found their owner, who explained they were a gift from an overseas son.

Dewey Set to Cover 3000 Miles in Week

By LEO WORDEN

ALBANY, N. Y., July 29 (INS)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, his plans completed for a 3000-mile trip next week to Pennsylvania, Illinois and Missouri, is to retire to brief semi-seclusion today at his Pawling, N. Y., farm.

The Republican presidential nominee prepared to study, over the week-end, the 15-point agenda on federal-state obligations and responsibilities which he and Gov. John W. Bricker, his running-mate wrote in Albany earlier this week.

That agenda will form the basis of discussions at St. Louis next Wednesday and Thursday by the Republican governors of 26 states which contain three-fourths of the nation's population and two-thirds of the Electoral College vote.

DEWEY DRIVES MAPPED

Republican strategy calls for an intensive drive in each of those states, on the theory that the tide which swept GOP governors into office may also carry a Republican into the White House.

Before leaving Albany Gov. Dewey disposed of the question whether he favors the renomination and re-election in the 29th Congressional District of Representative Hamilton Fish, pre-Pearl Harbor isolationist. He stated emphatically that he does not.

The Republican presidential nominee will go to New York city late tomorrow and leave that city tomorrow night for Pittsburgh. He will confer in Pittsburgh Monday with Republican members of Congress from Pennsylvania, and with leaders of business, labor and agriculture, discussing with the latter the problem of postwar reconversion to a peacetime basis.

Similar talks are scheduled for Springfield, Ill., on Tuesday. Gov. Dewey will be in St. Louis Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, returning to Pawling a week from tonight.

KENTUCKY FOR DEWEY

Judge Flem D. Sampson, former Governor of Kentucky, called upon Gov. Dewey yesterday and told him that he will carry that border state by a "substantial majority," and that the Republicans there will gain at least three congressional seats.

He urged the Governor to make a campaign speech in Kentucky during October, but no commitment was made.

Launch Two LSTs At Navy Yard Aug. 4

Two LSTs will be launched at Boston Navy Yard Aug. 4 with relatives of yard workers as sponsors. Mrs. Ethel A. Gannon of Greenwood ave., East Weymouth, daughter of John O. Holmberg of Middle st., Weymouth, and Mrs. Ella M. Kelleher, wife of Francis W. Kelleher of Orchard st., Lynn, will christen the vessels.

Call 25 Monday in McGrath Case

The far-reaching inquest into murder of 10-year-old Frances McGrath went into weekend recess today while detectives, working on testimony of many witnesses, continued an unabated hunt for the killer.

The inquest, conducted before Judge Francis Geogan in Hingham District Court, is expected to last through next Friday, with Dist. Atty. Edmund R. Dewing summonsing 25 more persons to testify on Monday.

5 to Get Holy Orders In Roxbury Church

Twenty-five students from St. John's Seminary, Brighton, will receive Holy Orders Thursday, Aug. 10, at ceremonies in the Holy Name Church, West Roxbury, of which the Rev. Edward F. Ryan, D.D., is pastor. It will mark the first time in the history of the Boston archdiocese of ordination exercises in a church other than the Cathedral of the Holy Cross. The cathedral is currently undergoing extensive repairs.

OPA Cancels Big Tire Permits

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP) —The Office of Price Administration has decided to cancel nearly all outstanding ration certificates for heavy bus and truck tires, effective at midnight, tonight, so that needs of operators may be examined in the light of sharply reduced allocations and new priority ratings.

The agency is making the drastic move, is was learned today, because certificates for about 100,000 heavy duty tires are in circulation, while only 60,000 casings will be available in August.

It was understood the cancellation order will apply to all but the relatively few certificates issued in the last few days.

All other operators will be required to file new applications with local ration boards.

New OPA panels will apply the stringent priority ratings. The preference list will govern issuance of all certificates.

DFC Awarded To S-Sgt. Murray

Thirty-four ex-Scottsmen, 30 now with the U. S. Army Eighth Air Force and four with the U. S. Army Fifth Air Force, have been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, according to an announcement from the Air Training Command at Scott Field, Ill.

Among the students who received decorations was S-Sgt. John J. Murray, 5 Upland rd., Cambridge.

WAC Cpl. Ivy Alberta Bain of Pinehurst is pictured after her marriage at the Bainbridge, Ga., Army Air Base to T-Sgt. Walter L. Brown. The bride joined the Women's Army Corps in Boston last year, and the bridegroom is a veteran of the fighting in Europe.

LAUGHING BRIDE. Off for a wedding reception at Longwood Towers, Lt. John Francis Beatty of Brighton and his bride, the former Jacqueline Coogan of Wellesley College and Miami Beach, Fla., leave St. Ignatius Church, Boston College, after nuptial mass today. After a brief honeymoon, they will reside in Rhode Island.

Doll-Lady Aiding Japs Convicted by Code Note

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—Mrs. Velvalee Dickinson, an antique doll dealer, pleaded guilty yesterday in U. S. District Court to a charge of violating the wartime censorship law by sending a coded letter to South America—a letter containing information about naval vessels hidden in obscure phrases.

As she pleaded guilty in a weak voice, Judge Stephen S. Chandler, Jr., dismissed a second indictment charging her with espionage, conviction on which could have meant the death penalty. She faces a maximum sentence on Aug. 14 of 10 years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

McNally said the censorship indictment grew out of an investigation of a letter addressed to Senora Inez Lopez de Molinali, Buenos Aires, Argentina.

It failed to reach its destination and was returned to the inscribed address of the sender which McNally said Mrs. Dickinson gave as Mrs. Mary E. Wallace of (1808 East High st.) Springfield, O., one of her customers. Mrs. Wallace became suspicious, McNally said, and immediately notified postal authorities.

The U. S. attorney said that in that letter Mrs. Dickinson, who visited the West Coast in January, 1942, wrote:

"The only new dolls I have are three lovely Irish dolls. One of these three dolls is an old fisherman with a net over his back, another is an old woman with wood on her back and the third is a little boy."

Cryptographers, McNally said, discovered the "fisherman with a net over his back" meant an aircraft carrier, the "old woman with wood on her back" meant a battleship with its large superstructure and "a little boy" signified a destroyer.

In another place, McNally said, Mrs. Dickinson wrote: "You wrote me that you had sent a letter to Mr. Shaw. Well, I went to see Mr. Shaw. He destroyed your letter, you know he has been ill. His car was damaged but it is being repaired now. I saw a few of his family about. They all say Mr. Shaw will be back to work soon."

That, McNally said, meant that the destroyer Shaw had been damaged, was being repaired, and that it would be back in action soon.

As a postscript to the letter, McNally said Mrs. Dickinson wrote: "Mother wanted to go to Louville but due to our worry the Louville plan put out our minds now."

The U. S. attorney said that referred to the cruiser Louisville and apparently meant that Mrs. Dickinson could not get any information about the cruiser and would have to forget it for a while.

Mrs. Dickinson was arrested last Jan. 21. At that time, the FBI said she had been a member of the Japanese-American society until 1937, was well known to persons connected with the Japanese consulate and military attaches on the West Coast prior to the war and had been a frequent visitor to the Japan institute here.

MRS. VELVALEE DICKINSON

BETTY, 2, ELLSWORTH, 8 MOS., AND CAROL LANDRY, 4
Their Mother Sentenced in Lynn Court on Polygamy Charge

Bridal Jails Mother Of 3 for Polygamy

In the same Lynn court where she was married Wednesday, Mrs. Stella A. Landry, 23-year-old mother of three small children, today was sentenced to six months in the house of correction, convicted of polygamy.

The same jurist who had given her a five-day waiver for the marriage, Judge Ralph W. Reeve, asked her, "What was the idea?"

The bride hung her head and remained silent.

Wednesday she had been married to William Berman, 24, of Canterbury st., Roslindale, a sailor who left a few hours later for the Naval Training Station at Camp Peary, Va.

A Lynn attorney, who heard about it, told police she had recently consulted him about a divorce.

Investigation disclosed she was already married to another sailor, Pierre Landry, 27, now in the Pacific. They were wed in 1939.

"Was it your plan to get another allotment?" Judge Reeve asked the young mother.

She would not answer.

He sentenced her and said, "You have the right of appeal."

She lifted her head and said, "I appeal."

Then she changed her mind.

Judge Reeve expressed concern for Mrs. Landry's children, Ellsworth, eight months; Betty, two, and Carol, four.

He called Policewoman Harriet Pierce to the bench and directed her to see that the children were given into the custody of proper persons, possibly the mother's parents.

Crow Back in Zoo After Wild Spree

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—After a night of drinking and street-brawling, Deacon, the talking crow, was back at Bronx Zoo today in disgrace.

Outraged Zoo officials locked him in a spare skunk's cage to sweat out his hangover.

Deacon, who acquired his name before his fad habits, left the Zoo at dusk yesterday. He was found in tipsy condition, engaged in a raucous bout with a white Tom cat.

Zoo personnel admitted Deacon was excessively fond of begging drinks on the terrace of a bar near-by.

2 N. E. Bombers Describe Fight

Two New England fliers with the Ninth Air Force today described their participation in the devastating attack on Nazi ground forces in Normandy which sent the enemy reeling back with a loss of 57 tanks, probable loss of 21 more, and damage to at least 101 others.

Capt. John H. Lougee of Worcester told of attacking a vehicle pulling a big gun southward. He said the vehicle blew up, leaving the gun stranded.

Lt. George L. Sutcliffe of Jamestown, R. I., said he saw two Tiger tanks moving up and let his bombs go.

"I must have hit one directly because there was nothing left but a blotch of wreckage. The other tank didn't move again," he said.

CHECK 'N' DOUBLE CHECK —Georgia Boyden, 43, known by four aliases, was charged by police today with having passed 60 bogus checks.

Woman Driver In 4th Default

The fourth attempt to dispose of auto violation charges against Mrs. Mabel Webber, 48, of Warren st., Needham, was unsuccessful today when she failed to appear in Newton district court. Judge W. Lloyd Allen then ordered police to find her and bring her to court.

Mrs. Webber's troubles with police began May 19 when she was charged with speeding, assault and battery on a motorcycle officer, refusing to stop on signal, refusing to show her license, operating to endanger, and failing to stop at a through way.

She was defaulted by Judge Donald C. Mayberry when she failed to appear for arraignment May 20. Illness on May 26 caused continuance of her case to June 2 but on that date she did not report.

Discovered by state police in their search of Scituate Beach cottages for clues in the slaying of Frances McGrath, Mrs. Webber was brought into court June 19 and Judge Mayberry continued the case until today.

At that time her bonds were increased from $200 to $600 at the request of Police Sgt. Patrick J.

Fire Destroys Truck, Laundry

Fire, caused by a short circuit, destroyed a truck loaded with laundry and resulted in damage estimated at $1800 today in a garage in Wildwood st., Mattapan.

The fire started in the truck, owned by Harris Fishman, of Cedar st., Roxbury, and for a time threatened to spread through the garage.

The truck, valued at $1000, was destroyed completely along with its load of laundry, which Fishman estimated was worth $300. Additional damage of $500 was caused by the fire in the garage.

Capt. Buccigross Restored to Duty

Police Capt. Joseph A. Buccigross, suspended in December, 1942, following indictment in the Cocoanut Grove probe, today was reinstated by Comr. Thomas F. Sullivan and assigned to the superintendent's office.

The indictment against Buccigross was nol prossed by Atty. Gen. Robert T. Bushnell earlier this week.

Curley Attends Brother's Rites

State and city officials and a delegation of Massachusetts Congressmen led mourners today at funeral services for John J. Curley, comptroller of customs and brother of Cong. James M. Curley, at St. Patrick's Church, Roxbury.

The Rev. John C. Lorden celebrated the solemn high mass of requiem while the Rev. Leo A. O'Leary was deacon and Rev George D. Roche subdeacon.

Cong. Curley flew from Kansas City, Mo., to attend the funeral after being notified by telegram of his brother's death.

Burial was in Old Calvary Cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by the Rev. William B. Whalen, pastor of St. Patrick's Church.

Among the mourners were Mayor and Mrs. Maurice J. Tobin, City Auditor Charles J. Fox, Clerk Theodore A. Glynn and officials of the Roxbury District Court, Clerk Edmund J. Hoye of Municipal Civil Court and a delegation from the comptroller's office.

War Worker Killed, 1 Hurt in Car Crash

Paul Nallin, 27, of Beacon st., Allston, a war worker, was killed, and Albert McManus, 18, of Bennett rd., Wayland, was critically injured, today, when their automobile crashed into a tree at a curve on Concord rd. at Plain st., Wayland.

The name of McManus, who suffered a fractured skull, is on the danger list at Leonard Morse Hospital, Natick.

3000-Ton Tow-Chain

WILMINGTON, Del., July 29 (AP)—A 3000-ton, mile and one-half long marine chain is being manufactured by the Dravo Corp. to pull ships into drydocks at the Portland, Ore., Navy Yard.

Bread on Waters For This Boss

NEW YORK, July 29 (INS)—John Giraffa may have been crooked, but he knew today that he must also have been kind.

Giraffa was in charge of a soft dring bottling company in New York. His 300 employes thought he was about the best boss in the world. When Giraffa was taken to felony court ad admitted taking $11,000 from his superiors to pay racing debts, he learned that his employes appreciated him.

They unanimously offered a week's pay apiece to make up for the money Giraffa admitted having taken.

Gabreski, Top Ace, Missing

OIL CITY, Pa., July 29 (AP)—The parents of Lt. Col. Francis S. Gabreski, top scoring ace in the U. S. Air Force with 31 planes to his credit, were notified by the War Department today that he has been "missing in action" since July 20.

Up to July 20, Lt. Col. Gabreski had shot down 28 planes in the air and destroyed three on the ground.

DSC, Captaincy to Belmont Man

Any man who can stand up and fight like a tiger, after five bullets have been pumped into him by Nazi gunners, has the stuff of which captains are made, the War Department believes.

Therefore, in making a captain of Lt. Theodore W. Noon, Jr., of 59 Village Hill rd., Belmont—and awarding him the Distiguished Service Cross—the Army described him as "virtually unstoppable."

The phrase is a rare one in Army communications but Noon is a rare citizen, according to an account of his valor released today.

Under heavy fire, Noon was leading his company against an enemy pillbox near Santa Maria Infanta, taly, May 12. Bullets hit him in both legs, knocking him down. He couldn't walk, so he crawled on his belly. Said the Army, "He silenced the enemy gun single-handedly."

It added: "In doing so he was wounded several other times about the face and head."

Noon was now mad enough to walk regardless of wounds. He brushed off suggestions of hospitalization, went on a personal reconnaissance trip and led his men into batle until they had taken another position.

Two days after the first bullet hit him he received his first medical attention, from the regimental surgeon, who found five wounds and wondered why Noon was alive.

The captain, now well on his way to recovery, is an officer of the 88th Infantry Division, son of a Harvard professor.

Have a Coca-Cola = Viva!

(YEAH MAN!)

...or being the good neighbor in Brazil

Your American's good-natured invitation Have a "Coke" is a good-neighbor policy in three short words. It marks that brand of friendliness which our fighting men carry with them everywhere among our Allies. In many lands from Alaska to South Africa, Coca-Cola is spreading the custom of the pause that refreshes,—that refreshing moment devoted to just being friendly. Enjoy it at home, too, with frosty Coca-Cola from your own refrigerator.

Coca-Cola
-the global high-sign

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

Blessed

are the merciful..

JOE SMITH has heard his last shot! The fellow who left with a smile on his face—who took the trans-Atlantic crossing—the training in England—the invasion of Normandy—all with a grin—has come back. Oh! It's not the Joe who went away. Lines of pain are deeply etched on his face. That springy stride will suffer sadly with an artificial leg. One twinkling eye will see no more. Joe had a duty to do—and he did it gladly. No complaint passes his lips—when asked, he'll tell you he's "feeling fine." He just isn't the kind of a guy who complains.

Joe is multiplied by thousands since the European invasion. Your brother or your husband or your sweetheart or your son may be found in his ranks. Thousands of Joes will come streaming homeward as the war progresses toward Germany and on other fronts. They will be the broken battalions of the "Purple Heart."

The caring for the wounded heroes is definitely one of the major responsibilities of our American women in this war. Casualties, as of June 29th, including the first two weeks of the battle in Normandy, total 244,158. We can well imagine how this figure will increase as the war progresses. The regular Army staff of Hospital Technicians must be greatly augmented to meet present and future demands—and the Army appeals to the women of the nation to assume this responsibility. That it will be assumed with alacrity and with pride is a foregone conclusion.

The women of America know that one of their loved ones may be involved. They know that these boys sacrificed everything. They know that mercy such as this will go down as history's greatest tribute to the women of America. They will form this "army of mercy" and its ranks will be full.

WANTED AT ONCE FOR ARMY MEDICAL WORK

22,000 WAC Technicians!

Trained or untrained women are wanted. A high school education is the principal requirement for acceptance to these schools. You who have been looking for more active and useful work in this war, now have an opportunity. Choose your school. If you are found qualified, you will be assigned to that school after your basic training. Five hospital schools are training women to serve as: Medical Technicians (for ward care of patients), Surgical Technicians (for operating room work), Laboratory Technicians (for hospital laboratories), Dental Technicians, X-Ray Technicians.

If you are already trained, the Army has a place for you in the Women's Army Corps right now. Red Cross Nurses' Aides, social workers, teachers, dental assistants, laboratory technicians, college graduates, occupational therapists, pharmacists and many others are needed badly and will be assigned directly to jobs in Army hospitals after basic training.

ACT NOW! It Offers a Vital War Job Now and Trains You for a Postwar Position!

British Call Robot Pilotless Aircraft

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Mr. James McEnaney
Boston American
Boston, Mass.

Strand Palace Hotel
The Strand, London

Dear Jim:

Are the folks back home so interested in Hitler's Vergeltunswaffe (Reprisal Weapon No. 1) that they actually want a technical description of it? Technical stories make dry reading, Jim, and I'm afraid the boys in Barsanti's will think I'm goin' expert. But if you want it, you can have it, as obtained directly from the British Ministry of Information.

They refer to it as a "pilotless aircraft with the explosive head" of which there are two distinct types: (1) the normal square-winged craft with an average speed of 350 MPH; (2) a rather larger craft, with curved and swept back wings, which attains a speed of 385 MPH, but which usually "slows" down to 250 MPH as it nears its target. No. 1 is approximately 21 feet long with a wing-spread of 16 feet. No. 2 is 25 feet long.

RANGE 150 MILES

Their range is estimated at 150 miles, though of course the Germans claim it will travel much farther. I've heard U. S. Naval officers say its explosive power equals that of a battleship's 16-inch gun, and if one landed within half mile of your window, Jim, you would believe them.

The explosive is carried in the war head, mounted in a thin casing in the front part of the fuselage. The craft is constructed almost entirely of steel and colored with the usual type of German camouflage—dark green on top, light blue underneath.

It is not radio but gyro-controlled, operated by an automatic pilot set before the take-off. It has a rudder and elevators, but no ailerons. The wings are set at about 8 degrees of dihedral. It is not possible to assess the power loader, but the wing loading is in the region of 80-100 pounds the square foot.

LEVEL COURSE

When everything is working properly, the air torpedo flies a straight and level course, but if a 20 mm cannon strikes the automatic pilot gyro, it causes weird convolutions which Britain's Tempests, for all their maneuverability, cannot follow.

The bombs are catapulted from slightly elevated concrete ramps about 70 feet wide, 50 feet thick and from 700 to 750 feet in length. Walls of the control house are six feet thick, the ceiling 10 feet. A one-ton bomb will leave only a crater of four feet, and that is why they were so difficult to dislodge at first. Now they're being punctured with five-ton bombs. Each ramp, British say, can discharge a flying bomb every 40 minutes, so you can imagine the damage that would have been wrought had the bases captured in Normandy been in operation as well as those in the Pas de Calais region.

The jet-propulsion unit is of particular interest, because it is of the compressor-less type, whereas most recent developments have incorporated an engine or turbine-driven compressor. It appears that the unit comprises a tube of welded steel approximately 11 feet in length. At the forward end is a large intake in which is mounted a multiple flap valve resembling a series of unbalanced shutters. Behind the valve are the fuel sprayers, and farther to the rear is a venturi, with the ignition plug located in the center.

130 GALLONS OF FUEL

Shall I continue, or have you had enough? Continue, you say?

The fuel used is petrol, and 130 gallons are carried in wing tanks. It is fed under pressure to the fuel sprayers by compressed air stored in two spherical wire-wound bottles carried in the fuselage. It is not clear yet whether the compressed air is used merely to transfer the fuel under pressure or whether it is at the same time mixed with the fuel to atomize it upon injection.

According to reports, the operation is as follows: Due to a forward speed of the craft, air is rammed into the propulsion duct and into this somewhat compressed air the fuel is injected and ignited. Whether injection is continuous and ignition periodic, whether igniter is a continuous glow plug and injection periodic, or whether both injection and ignition are periodic is not clear.

In a relatively confined space, there is an explosion giving a sharp rise in pressure which closes the flap valve at the intake, and the combustion products are violently ejected from the rearwardly directed propulsion nozzle. As the internal pressure in the propulsion unit falls, the flap valve will be opened by the surrounding air stream, and a new charge of air will be rammed into the unit, and the operation repeated. Thus arises the characteristic pulsating note which, on first acquaintance, sounded strange for a jet-propulsion plant.

Duration of flight is determined by a time switch which possibly trips the automatic pilot, and puts the craft into a steep dive. Of course, insufficient pressure in the air bottles or complete consumption of the fuel, whether deliberately arranged or resulting from gunfire, will also terminate the flight. The varying descriptions of the final behavior of the craft—power dive, powerless glide, sharp cut-off, fluttering or gradual fadeout of the propulsion unit—would be accounted for by these considerations.

That is the technical side of the story. Now consider the practical side: (1) it averages from base to target a higher rate of speed than a crewed bomber; (2) it is vulnerable to defense for less than half the time, because it has no return journey to make; (3) it can work effectively in weather which would keep bombing crews on the ground; (4) for weight of explosives dropped, it is economical—$3000 the 2200-pound load; (5) it is a consumable store and therefore, the defense is incapable of causing the enemy a "loss." Whatever happens, there is a chance of the bomb doing some damage.

But enough of that. Why not ask me to do a column on the people of London, while I await that assignment to France? The human side of the news interests me more than the technical.

Cheerio.

All Paris Subway Service Suspended

NEW YORK, July 29 (INS)—Stoppage of Paris subway service since Sunday as a result of the shortage of electric current was reported today. A Bern dispatch reported to the OWI, said Nazis blame the shortage on sabotage against power stations and interference with coal transport by air attacks.

Island Home for Unity Mitford

LONDON, July 29 (AP)—Unity Mitford, once called the "perfect type of Nordic beauty" by Hitler, has been granted permission to live on the Island of Inchkenneth in the Atlantic west of Mull and has taken up residence there with her parents, Lord and Lady Redesdale, it was disclosed today.

The Island, off the coast of Scotland, is owned by Redesdale and the only other inhabitants are the ferryman and farm manager.

WASHINGTON, July 29 (INS)—The Office of Price Administration declared that another sharp reduction has been made in the number of new automobiles available for rationing, disclosing that only 5000 new cars can be released for sale to the public during August.

Watch Rommel

LONDON, July 29 (AP) — The possibility Field Marshal Rommel might have a Nazi party member watching his moves was suggested by a Berlin radio announcement today that Maj. Gen. Edgar Feutchtinger is an aide to Rommel.

Feutchtinger has in the past organized Nurnberg Nazi party spectacles and converted captured French tanks to German use.

Demobilizing Act To Be Speeded

BONHAM, Tex., July 29 (AP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn announced today all members of the House Postwar Planning and Legislative Committees would be called back to Washington immediately to speed enactment of demobilization legislation before collapse of Germany.

"When Germany will collapse, nobody knows," Speaker Rayburn said, "but we must beprepared for the problems that will follow such a collapse."

Mr. Rayburn issued the announcement after a telephone conference with James F. Byrnes, War Mobilization director. The Speaker plans to leave for Washington tomorrow.

Senator Alben Barkley, Democratic leader in the Senate, and other leaders were reported planning to return to the capital Monday and Tuesday.

Over 300 Australian War Brides Await U. S. Voyage

By JACK MAHON

AN AUSTRALIAN PORT, July 29 (INS)—More than 300 war brides—largest contingent yet assembled here—are awaiting transportation today to the United States where they intend to set up housekeeping as wives of American servicemen whom they met and married in Australia.

The girls are confident they will learn to love the U. S. A. just as their husbands do. Many clutched babies their fathers had never seen.

About 10 per cent of the group are not yet married but will take the vows with men who have received medical discharges and already are in the United States.

Ages range from 19 to over 40.

"After all, life is what you make it," said one blonde philosopher. "I don't believe some of those reports sent back by Australian correspondents in the states saying that we will find American life foreign and strange.

Outward bound for "somewhere"

"I'd rather be with them— than waiting for them"

I'LL ADMIT there's a funny lump in my throat . . .

But here I am, loaded with my overseas pack, climbing up the side of the biggest boat I've ever seen—and glad of it.

Glad I said "good-by" to civilian life months ago—and went into the WAC. Glad I went through all the training and on to active duty.

For, as a Wac, I'm really working for victory. Sharing the hard part of war. And the glory that will come.

I'd rather be with them—in the Army . . .

Than waiting back home—thinking up things to make the time go by—listening to the news—wondering when it'll all be over.

Yes, I'm in the Army and on my way—and I'm glad to the bottom of my heart!

on April 17 to confer with PAC officials.

The following government bureaus have exchanged "fourth term" telephone calls and telegrams with the New York PAC officials in recent months, according to the report.

The White House, Farm Security Administration, War Manpower Administration, Foreign Economic Administration, War Production Board, Department of Labor, Treasury Department, Federal Security Agency, Office of Strategic Services, Library of Congress, Bureau of the Budget, Fair Employment Practices Committee, Federal Communications Commission, Interior Department, National Housing Administration, Department og Justice, Department of Agriculture, National Labor Relations Board, Office of Price Administration, Office of War Information, Census Bureau, State Department, Department of Commerce, Federal Works Agency Smaller War Plants Corp., Federal Shipping Administration.

CALLS TO NILES

The Stripling report says to the Dies committee members:

"You will notice, for example, that from December to May there were a total of 13 calls from the PAC at New York to David K Niles, administrative assistant to the President at the White House: six to Jonathan Daniels, one to Lowell Mellett and one to Judge Samuel Rosenman, all attached to the White House. It is well known that David K. Niles and Jonathan Daniels are the political strategists of the White House."

The report says that while the top PAC officials are identified with labor, "the people who actually are running the PAC seem to have no background with labor but are fresh out of government."

The report remarks that on March 29, 1944, the committee filed with the House a report on the PAC which emphasized the Communist domination of the organization through many of its officers and leaders, "who had extensive records of Communist activity."

THREE DIES PROBERS OUT

The sharp contest raised by the report may be a life-and-death struggle for the House committee to investigate un-American activities.

The committee long has been anathema to the social experimenters of the New Deal, and PAC primary election blows are held largely responsible for the elimination from the House of three leading members of the committee — Chairman Dies of Texas, Joseph Starnes of Alabama and John M. Costello of California, all Democrats.

The Hatch act reads:

"It shall be unlawful for any person employed in the executive branch of the federal government, or any agency or department thereof, to use his official authority or influence for the purpose of interfering with an election or affecting the result thereof.

"No officer or employe in the executive branch of the federal government, or department there-

Soldiers Smuggle Girl, 19, on Invasion

By WILLIAM BROWN
Reuter's Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 29 (INS)—A 19-year-old factory girl who was "smuggled" over to Normandy concealed in an amphibious landing craft spent a fortnight there not far from the front line before she was allowed by military authorities to return to England, officials revealed today.

She wasa Mary Phillips of South Wales, who arrived back in Britain under military escort. This is the story she told:

"I went to the seaside and met two of my girl friends.

"Some soldiers talked to us and said they were going over to Normandy that day . . . I remember replying 'No' but somebody lifted me suddenly and carried me to a boat, put me down through a hatch and closed it up.

"It was dark, hot and stuffy down there. I must have almost fainted for the next thing I remember was a soldier peering down through a hatch and saying 'You're in France, baby.'

"When I came up to the deck I realized where I was. Guns were firing everywhere and there was a lot of noise.

"It frightened me to realize I was so near to the battle front. But I jumped on to the shore and went straight to the guard who took me to an officer about a mile and a quarter from the front line.

"I was almost too frightened to move because of the shells passing overhead. When I told the officer who I was and where I came from he was dumbfounded."

She said she was guarded night and day and was conducted to various United States officials for questioning

She lodged in a French farmhouse where she spent her time sewing for her guards who were changed every few hours

"They told me I could have been shot out of hand as a spy because I had nothing to prove who I was," she said. "I had lost my handbag with my money and identity card but they saw that my English was fluent enough even though it was spoken with a Welsh accent."

Only after inquiries in this country to establish the girl's identity was she allowed to return to Britain under escort.

Author Defends Italian Prisoners

A plea for fair play in consideration of the problem of former Italian prisoners of war was made today in a letter to the Boston Evening American from Mrs. Olga Pini of West Roxbury, prominent Italo-American writer, educator and Americanization worker.

Mrs. Pini was among a large group who participated actively a year ago in an OWI program in which a series of shortwave radio broadcasts were made to Italy, urging the soldiers to surrender and join forces with the invading Allies.

SON OVERSEAS

Her letter reads:

With a young son somewhere overseas fighting for Uncle Sam the writer's reaction as to war prisoners in America was one of complete apathy because she felt the war was over for them and they were in God's country and would be treated the American way. What she had not understood on reading the many resentful letters of John Q. Public, the protests of vociferous Congressmen, of department heads of this, that and the other organization was that these men are NOT prisoners of war.

Speaking their language fluently, the writer decided to meet some of these men from Camp MacKay in South Boston and some from Camp Myles Standish in Taunton, for the American way was to hear the other side before condemning. Apathy turned to keen interest on talking to alert, intelligent men, some graduates of institutions of high learning in Italy. The writer talked straight into clear, blue eyes (yes, blue), into dark, straightforward countenances, determined faces and learned:

CALLED SERVICE UNIT

In that troubled country, Italy, during the Mussolini regime there have always been the Facist soldiers and the soldiers of the regular army. The Fascist soldiers had to be captured, the soldiers of the regular army surrendered upon our appeal of a year or so ago when we radioed that American soldiers came as liberators and not as conquerors, that they should surrender and join the Allies. Being rational and intelligent, always admirers of our great country and with family ties here, they readily responded, and upon arrival here, broke away from the Fascist group and pledged themselves to work for the Allied Victory. Yes, they would gladly return to combat the enemy at the Allies' side.

WEAR KHAKI

In return they were allowed to don the American khaki bearing a green patch with the word "Italy" on the sleeve, they were scheduled to work so many hours, were allowed more liberties than prisoners and be known as Italian men of the Service Unit and not "prisoners." Living up to their agreement has been these men's only fault for which they have been severely criticised and looked upon with contempt. These men told the writer they would gladly work 20 hours a day for America for they respect America, but they, too would like the respect due men who have rallied to the Allies' cause. No one can have more contempt for Mussolini than these men have. They feel he ruined Italy and enslaved its people. Their first act in America was to denounce him and his regime. The writer viewed documents from Washington commending them for their offer to return to the front to help exterminate the killers of their loved ones. These men have homes, mothers, wives, children whom they have not seen in over five years to whom they would rather return than be feted in the finest mansion in America. These men were forced into battle on three fronts, they haven't had any word from home in five long years. Think of it! Not as prisoners of war, but rather as Italian soldiers of a Service Unit working for the Allied cause are these men being allowed to visit through the medium of a rotating system.

NEED MORE LIBERTY

Knowing their true status, their true feelings, their purpose, they should be allowed liberty more than once in a year. But, protests and more protests because they are doing what we urged them to do! War mothers, picture your own sons in a foreign country, acting in good faith, offering his very life to the Allied cause being looked upon with contempt if he dare mingle with citizens, dare experience social contacts after long years of privation! These are the soldier sons and husbands of the women who received our boys with open arms, who showered them with floral tributes, who placed their meagre possessions at their disposal . . . or are our Signal Corps photos to be doubted? Do we stop to realize the unique torment of these men who now find themselves hated by the Fascists from whom they withdrew and heir in contempt by those of us who insist on calling them "prisoners"? It is the writer's opinion that the average citizen has not understood the status and predicament of these men or such strong protests would not be voiced. Otherwise we would be inconsistent, shunning them because they have complied with our requests, wouldn't we?

CHILDISH ATTITUDE

As an American service mother I would ask Congressman Alvin W. Wiechel of Sandusky, O., who labels these men as "backstabbers," "killers," "Mussolinites,' Isn't your attitude rather childish? What are our boys doing in the four corners of the world, our boys whose only viciousness was to kick a football or bat a baseball? We don't like to term them "killers," but they must obey orders, just what were these men to do at the time? They surrendered to a just cause as soon as they could. You ask American parents to protest their wearing American uniforms. I've seen them; they are the castoffs of our boys, much darned and patched, and are accepted gratefully. If citizenry demands that these men remain prisons despite their feelings and intentions, then return them to that status before you voice those loud protests, refuse their offers and treat them as prisoners of war. They, too, demand this. But, having rallied to our side, they wish the respect due them and not to be reviled, gaped at and stoned.

The writer will gladly serve as interpreter to anyone who doubts the sincerity of these men which has prompted this article. She has no ties amongst these men, knows no one of them personally and is interested only in fair play and remembers always that first and foremost she is an American seeking the democracy for which her son volunteered his very life

To you who are waiting for a new home telephone

As of TODAY, there are many thousands on the waiting lists of our Telephone Business Offices throughout this territory. Some have been waiting for many months.

The reason is a shortage of telephone equipment, due to the fact that practically all telephone manufacturing facilities and manpower have been working to produce communications equipment for war.

So we must say frankly that our present chances of filling your order depend upon these two things . . . (1) the extent to which present subscribers may decide to give up service, thus releasing central office equipment, instruments, outside wires, etc.; and (2) the extent to which such released equipment is not needed for war and essential civilian services and emergencies.

While we cannot tell at this time when we will be able to install a telephone for you, we do promise you this: Your application will not be forgotten, and it will be filled in its proper turn.

Now may I take a moment to say something on behalf of us "telephone people"? It concerns you, too.

We don't like to use the words "No" and "We don't know when" any more than you like to hear them.

We have a pretty good idea how you feel when you have been accustomed to telephone service when and where you want it — and can't get it. We think we know how "Sorry" sounds when you, as an applicant for new service, move into a new place and find that the previous tenant's instrument must be put back into the "pool" to fill an order ahead of yours . . . or when you ask just how long you will have to wait and we are unable to tell you.

But so long as needs of war have first claim and until the manufacture of adequate telephone equipment for civilian use can be resumed, our job is to do the best we can, and to be fair to everybody.

Meanwhile, we are finding an attitude of co-operation and understanding on your part that is genuinely appreciated by all of us.

Our Greatest Tragedy

IN HIS RECENT ADDRESS before the Boys' Clubs of America in New York City, Director J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation disclosed the appalling fact that:

"Last year in this land of ours there were 3785 serious crimes committed EACH DAY."

This meant, said Mr. Hoover, that ONE OUT OF EVERY TWENTY-ONE AMERICAN HOMES was a victim of the crime toll.

But tragic as that is, he continued, it is not our GREATEST tragedy.

"The real tragedy in these figures," Mr. Hoover warned, "is found in the RISING NUMBER OF YOUTHFUL OFFENDERS."

Arrests of boys under seventeen years of age have INCREASED THIRTY PER CENT since the outbreak of the war.

Mr. Hoover is surely RIGHT.

All of our war casualties are plainly not battle casualties.

THE WAR is maiming and demoralizing not only soldiers, but American BOYS AND GIRLS.

It is destroying their wholesome instincts.

It is foreclosing them against useful lives.

It is depriving the nation in its future years of the trustworthy and capable type of American citizenship upon which its prosperity and progress will depend, and especially upon which its freedom will depend.

What does Mr. Hoover think we can DO about this deplorable and tragic situation?

His views on the question are authoritative, and therefore important.

His most positive view is that we should quit trying to cure juvenile delinquency by correction, and begin curing it by PREVENTION.

His most earnest and urgent recommendation is that:

"Prevention means giving a young man WHOLESOME THINGS with which to occupy his time.

"The lesson stressing a clean record, good character and a strong body is worth much more than any other lesson a boy can learn."

This is the duty America is neglecting.

And by our neglect, we are not only abandoning youth to crime but are DRIVING youth into the worst of all criminal hands—the subversive and undemocratic and UNAMERICAN Communists.

"THE SAME ALIEN-MINDED AND un-American forces which have been gnawing at the pillars of our democracy to destroy the American way of life are endeavoring to inject their sinister poison into the veins of our American youth," said Mr. Hoover.

"Now we behold the Communist virus seeking to capitalize upon one of our great national problems—prevention of juvenile delinquency.

"Already in some of our large cities, through youth recreation centers operated by Communist groups, they are reaching out to extend their insidious influence into the field of youth training.

"Obviously, the Communist technique of providing recreation centers also provides the opportunity to seek covertly YOUTHFUL CONVERTS under the guise of providing them with entertainment."

Next to assuring our boys and girls of AMERICAN instruction and inspiration, the clear duty upon us in our program of crime prevention is to have NONE BUT AMERICANS ON GUARD.

As an integral part of our national effort to save American youth from crime, as Mr. Hoover urges, let us "launch an offensive to PROTECT YOUNG AMERICANS FROM FALSE AND UNDEMOCRATIC TEACHINGS and to preserve and to promote the AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE."

WASHINGTON, July 29—A few months ago Congress passed an appropriation to reward government employes for suggestions calculated to save Uncle Sam's time and money.

Five dollars ($5) has just been taken from this appropriation to pay off Miss Mary F. Wheatland, of the Maritime Commission. The fund may be poorer by this amount, but I am sure the Maritime Commission is infinitely richer.

I only trust that this sudden wealth does not go to Miss Wheatland's head, and make her purse-proud and overbearing, because she is obviously a great asset to government.

In fact, I have been assured that her suggestion is one of the most constructive and forward-looking since the introduction of civil service in the administration of Chester A. Arthur.

Her suggestion—the five buck one—is this:

That the mirrors in the ladies' washrooms be moved away from the wash basins!

THE AWARD was made by a committee headed by John M. Carmody, one of the Maritime commissioners. I do not know how thoroughly Mr. Carmody went into the subject, but I am informed—on the most reliable authority—that he picked a winner.

Living in a limited sphere of action as I do, I will admit that I did not appreciate the suggestion's full merits at first blush. It was not until I had concluded an exhaustive survey that I realized its tremendous significance and scope.

Employing my customary delicacy and tact, I interviewed a number of young ladies in our building. I might add that I also obtained the first exclusive interview with the head matron of our ladies' washroom—and I only hope the Pulitzer prize committee will remember this when it hands out its next awards for journalistic scoops.

The matron, Mrs. Isabel Martin, said she has long advocated the removal of mirrors from wash basins, but that she does not suppose anyone will hand her $5. Mrs. Martin is not bitter, understand; she just made the observation in passing.

"If there are mirrors over wash basins," she said, "the young ladies stand there and comb their hair. Loose hair goes down the drain and clogs it up something awful. It means that I have to call the plumber and the room must be closed while he is working."

Another whom I interviewed was Mrs. Elizabeth (Dotty) Shelton, who is a very demure type but with definite ideas on many subjects. In a prepared statement for the press, Mrs. Shelton said:

"I consider Miss Wheatland's suggestion to have vast merit. By moving mirrors away from the wash basins many woman—and even man—hours will be saved to the government.

"Women always primp before a mirror. While they are doing this they let all sorts of things drop into the wash basins, including hair.

"They drop hairpins and bobby pins and powder puffs and rings and pancake make-up. In the event you are unfamiliar with pancake make-up it is not used for whipping up flapjacks but is employed for spreading thinly over the face or kisser.

"It is used most often in the summer time when there is considerable perspiring. Ordinary dry powder has a tendency to cake when assailed by perspiration. But pancake make-up will remain uncaked. However, it is very hard on drains."

Miss Marion Reid, my associate, said that another argument for removing mirrors from basins was that women kept the basins tied up while primping, thus forcing other women to wait their turn to wash.

"This causes great congestion," said Miss Reid. "I personally have seen ladies' rooms that looked like traffic jams.

"Another thing," added Miss Reid. "Women who are primping in front of a wash basin have a decided tendency to mar the walls. If they have lipstick on their fingers, for instance, they will rub it off on the wall. The result is most unsightly."

Miss Reid said that, in her considered opinion, Miss Wheatland's suggestion would catch on much better if a theme song, or cantata, were written to go with it. Her suggestion for a mirrorless wash basin song hit was:

"In the Good Old Plumber Time."

LORD KEYNES, chief economic adviser to the British Treasury, was discussing the recent international monetary conference at Bretton Woods, N. H., which he attended as head of the British delegation.

A questioner asked:

"How do you expect the proposed international monetary fund to stabilize exchange when you have all these exceptions, such as the announcement by the British government that it intends to control its own exchange rate for a certain period after the war?"

Without a second's hesitation, Lord Keynes shot back:

"Marriage is an institution for the stabilization of relations between the sexes. But you still have divorces and judicial separations."

THE NAZIS say the Americans are "want to go home" soldiers. If the Nazis think because a man wants to get back to his wife, his family or the girl he expects to marry it makes him any softer as a fighter they are screwier than I thought. A man who wants to go home can be a very tough guy. He hates the enemy who is keeping him from his home. Finally, he gets very desperate, as the Americans did in 1918, when they coined the slogan "Heaven, Hell or Hoboken by Christmas." Right after which they launched a series of attacks that chased the enemy back to Germany. Thousands of the Germans were so scared by the ferocity of this American attack they couldn't even run. So they threw down their guns put up their hands and appealingly whined: "Kamerad!"

HOLLYWOOD, July 29—I knew there was some deal with a Mexican star in the offing for Mary Pickford, but every time I put it up to Mary she'd just look mysterious and say "I can't talk." Well, today she told me she, Hunt Stromberg and Dudley Murphy have made a three-way deal with Pedro Armendariz, famous Mexican actor — the first triple-star ownership.

Mary Pickford

Armendariz was in "Maria Candelaria" with Dolores Del Rio, and that is as fine a picture as has ever been made in Mexico. The deal is made so the young man can return to Mexico and appear in Dudley Murphy's pictures there also. Mary first saw Armendariz when she visited in Mexico last year. His first American picture is "Dishonored Lady" for Hunt Stromberg, which goes into production in October.

DAVID SELZNICK, who left town in a very happy frame of mind, showed me a telegram William Randolph Hearst had sent him about "Since You Went Away." "I'm going to frame that telegram," David said. "You don't know what it means to me." So here is what Mr. Hearst said about "Since You Went Away," which is breaking records in New York at this very moment: "The picture 'Since You Went Away' which you so kindly sent me is to my mind a great cinema achievement. It is not a picture of exaggerated and perverted propaganda. It is not sensational but it is highly emotional. It is sincere. It is real. It is a true expression of the conditions which prevail today in so many American homes. Let me congratulate you on your long series of outstanding [illegible]. (Signed) "W. R. HEARST."

I THOUGHT I saw a familiar face when I was on the Selznick lot a few days ago. I was right. It was Jean Acker, no less, Rudy Valentino's first wife and a pioneer in the movie business. Before David took off for Maryland and Chesapeake Bay to join his wife, he saw to it that Jean had a part in Ingrid Bergman's picture, "The House of Edwardes."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Rumor is that Evelyn Keyes and Charles Vidor have dated the stork: Gloria De Haven and Pat Nearney were a surprise and unexpected twosome at Ciro's. He was very attentive to her, too; Gail Patrick isn't going to let her career interfere with her marriage. She's taken a house at Miami and she'll commute for pictures; Rita Hayworth is racing with the stork to get "Tonight And Every Night" finished; A special arrangement in English is being made of "Ma-Mi" for the Andrews Sisters. They'll record it under the title of "My Heart Sings;" Sgt. Max Baer is ill at the Dewitt General Hospital at Auburn, Cal.

NEW YORK, July 29—Raymond C. Schindler, famous private detective, who was recently front-paged in the Oakes case of Nassau, is a modern Sherlock Holmes. A member of the "Stork Club set," he is admirably qualified to pick up items as well as clues . . . D. K.

RAYMOND C. SCHINDLER SAYS:

A few coast-to-coast items picked up en route from Manhattan to Hollywood.

NEW YORK: Saw Bess Farley at Stork Club . . . truly a busy and remarkable lady. I peeked into the Kiss Room and there was Peggy Joyce at her usual table, with an internationally known Texan. Had a line from Melody Thompson whom I sponsored with Harry Conover. She is making her first picture with Metro. Watch this new rising star.

EN ROUTE TO CHICAGO: Played gin rummy with Anna Mae Wong, who just returned from a USO tour through the Aleutians and Alaska. She is reporting to the Coast for a new assignment. Was I observing: First evening out of New York she wore American dress with Chinese influence. The next morning at breakfast . . . Chinese dress with American influence and was I influenced!

CHICAGO: I dashed madly in all directions to get inspiration for this column . . . Lunched with Westbrook Pegler. You guessed it—we discussed unions. Ole Olsen, assistant sergeant-at-arms at the Republican Convention . . . with his Hellzapoppin style of reporting, hit front page Chicago papers . . . He tells me Olsen and Johnson's new show for the Winter Garden, going into rehearsal in September, will be called LAFFING ROOM ONLY.

I'm frequently asked in Chicago about the unsolved Williams (Drake Hotel) murder case. Chalk that one up to official bungling.

Star Shine By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, July 29—Ginny Simms offers, in an entertainment way, something for the boys. They go for her.

Theoretically, she is a glamour girl. Actually, she is not. She has what it takes, a dazzling smile, and a figure that fills the perfect form bathing suit. She looks sophisticated in an evening gown, but she is not sophisticated.

Ginny Simms

She was born on a farm, near San Antonio, Tex. She is five feet six inches tall, has hazel-green eyes and chestnut color hair. She weighs 120 pounds.

She loves to dance. Rhythm, of any kind, sends her.

She also took piano lessons for years that cost plenty of money. But not a cent was spent for a singing lesson. That, she learned by herself.

She actually got her start in radio and pictures through Kay Kyser. She was his featured vocalist for years.

HER CURRENT PICTURE is "Broadway Rhythm," and at Metro they are preparing several for her. On the set, she is one of the gang. She is never at tension.

Clothes are not a problem with her. Her wardrobe isn't sensational. She likes her formals simple, but good. She prefers slacks, shirt waists and play suits. She seldom wears a sweater because she always turns around when anybody whistles.

Her hobbies are saving soap wrappers from various hotels where she stops, and collecting miniature china animals. Her favorite relaxation is an afternoons jam session. She likes to get in there and sing with a pick-up gang of musicians

HER FAVORITE GANG would be Cookie Fairchild at the piano, along with Harry James and Ziggy Elman and their trumpets; Eddie South and Harry Bluestone and their violins; Jimmy Dorsey and Glenn Miller and their trombones; Woody Herman and Benny Goodman and their clarinets; Gene Krupa and Buddy Rich and their drums, and Lionel Hampton and his vibraphone. "With," she adds, 'Kay Kyser as the stick waver."

She resides in Northbridge, where she has a producing farm. She really pitches in and works. In fact, she's the mayor of Northbridge.

Her personal room is large, has flowered draperies, and is primly feminine in a starched dimity sort of way. She has twin beds.

Boston After Dark

SAME OLD BROADWAY. Influence should have gotten her the role . . . A letter from a Broadway press-agent, who was once a prominent columnist, told the director the girl not only could act, but that she was the friend of important newspapermen in a key city . . . Believers in the somewhat unstable maxim that it's not a case of what you know, but whom you know that counts, will be disappointed at the outcome . . . For the talented, ambitious and pretty kid did NOT get the role . . . She got the familiar: "So sorry, the play is cast!" . . . (If you know your movies about Broadway, including "Stage Door," you will recall that bit of dialogue.)

SO LET us get around to names . . . The press-agent sent the letter of introduction to his friend, David Burton, the veteran director . . . The girl in the story is Cookie Faye, once of the Mayfair's chorus line and later of the Copley and Cambridge Summer Theaters . . . The friends of the Fourth Estate in the key City were such as George Clarke of the Record, Joe Dineen, G. Holland and most of the Boston drama critics . . . But Cookie appeared for the interview wearing her hair down her back, and in a simple little frock which gave her that school-girl appearance . . . Her rejection was positive and almost immediate.

CAME ANOTHER two weeks of New York's shrivelling summer heat . . . Miss Faye kept hearing rumors along the Broadway casting route that the play, something called "Lower North," was not cast, as she had been told, but was lacking at least one very important personality able to fill the role of a tough New York gal named Ruby, who was a member of Mrs. Warren's Profession . . . She decided to try again . . . This time, Miss Faye wore a blue jersey dress that clung to her lush and luscious figure . . . She also wore her hair up, not schoolgirlishly.

BROADWAY BEING A STREET of short memories, as Tin Pan Alley has been pointing out since the song about there being a broken heart for every light on the thoroughfare, Miss Faye was not recognized as the rejectee of two weeks before . . . No indeed . . . Not only was she not recognized—she was hired! . . . This time, the brain-trust of "Lower North" asked her to do a jitterbug routine, an essential talent for portrayal of the role . . . Cookie, like almost any experienced chorus kid, can do a tremendous jitterbug routine . . . The story we get is that the onlookers whistled and bravo-ed when she jitterbugged . . . At any rate, Miss Cookie Faye is on the program in the role of Ruby.

AND IT IS NICE TO REPORT — because other smart girls and boys may be encouraged to do likewise—that Miss Faye has placed her letter of introduction with all those names in her file of shallow, futile and senseless things. (An emcee's handclap of introduction is in the same file) . . . That is the beautiful part of the little story . . . And the moral is obvious . . . Never try to get a Broadway role with a background of Boston newspaper friendship when the play is going to open in Princeton, N. J. . . .

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Vaughn Monroe being in the throes of an operation, Marilynn Duke, his lovely, dark-eyed vocalist, is singing at the Frolics, in Revere . . . Vaughn's operation gave his crew a three-weeks' layoff . . . Miss Duke decided she did not need a vacation . . . Miamians this winter may be able to greet a new Music Box, and John Costello, boss of the Boston Music Box, will have a hand in its operation . . . The best magician on view in Boston in many a moon is current at the Fox & Hounds Club's Rumba Casino . . . He opened last night before an amazed audience which included his sponsor, Benny Gaines . . . The magician's name is Terry Lynn, and he is an urbane looking fellow of 55 to 60 years of age who does tricks many of us will be seeing for the first time . . . His card-spearing trick with a sword is remarkable.

OTHER MAGICIANS have speared one card, picked by the audience, out of a thrown pack, but Mr. Lynn spears three in one tossing . . . He discovers a ring, numbered by an auditor, in a locked jewel box; he materializes coins the way Cardini pulls cigarettes out of the air . . . His tricks are new and wonderful . . . The aforesaid Mr. Gaines has been using Mr. Lynn each season at the Pago-Pago (pronounced Pango-Pango) Club on the Miami Beach Vanderbilt-Biltmore . . . He shipped Mr. Lynn north this summer as a curiosity gesture to Eddie Dowling (Yes, Mr. Gaines and Mr. Dowling are cousins.)

5-Day Diet Short Cut to Trimness

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THE SUMMER is about half over . . . so it's time to give a sneaking glance to the future . . . and to those silhouette days ahead . . . and if you want to get some of that summer sluggishness out of your system . . . this is for you . . . and you . . . and you. Naturally, some of that excess baggage will drop by the wayside . . . and you'll emerge a perkier and peppier person.

We've relaxed . . . lounged about . . . been lazy in the noonday sun . . . we've romped in play suits and sun shorts . . . we've given the Venus figure a short-cut to soft flabbiness . . . with the result that now we need a tightener . . . a perker-upper for the slimming and trimming demands of the fall's new silhouette.

My male colleagues gave me a second, appraising look after I'd been on my five-day special . . . and what greeted their orbs met with instant approval. True the figure is down pretty near to par . . . but it was the trim effect that got them . . . that vital spring in the walk . . . and the fetching belted waistline . . . so they looked . . . and now the office gals are going forth to conquer the scales.

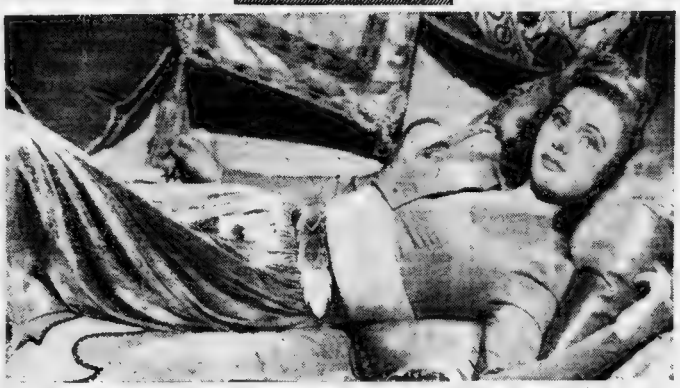
RIGHT TIME TO DIET

This is a good time to diet. The heat . . . more or less takes one's appetite away . . . We don't long for such rich, creamy desserts . . . and heavy, overbalanced meals. We are in the mood to lose weight.

And you feel so much better for the thorough cleansing the system gets. Of course, if you are terribly over-weight . . . your dieting should be done ONLY under supervision of a physician. Dieting is only for those . . . and not strenuous weight taking off either . . . who are in normal good health. If you have any organic disturbances . . . it is best to consult a physician before undertaking any such weight reduction.

I'll be happy to send you my five-day favorite diet if you write me care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A LIBERATION BONNET . . . which Lilly Dache designed in tribute to the classic symbol figure of French liberty . . . is this Cherbourg blue felt . . . a high peaked forward twisted Phrygian cap. The new hats for fall are really towering into the skies . . . judging from the advance showings . . . and this startling topper is a stunning example. R. M.



A TYPICAL AMERICAN GIRL is interested in swimming, dancing and fun . . . but woe unto the miss whose figure isn't trim and slim . . . youthful and feminine . . . for any other form dimensions add years to our looks. My favorite five-day diet special will help you drop some of your excess figure baggage if you need it . . . to look as glamorously lovely as Warner Starlet Madeleine Le Beau.

Wine Cobblers Quench Thirst

By MARTHA LEE

NOTHING is quite so right as an icy drink on a torrid day. Appetites may wilt in summer, but thirst only grows more insistent as the mercury soars. Satisfying this ever-present thirst is one of the first requisites of summer hospitality.

Mingled fruit juice and wine and plenty of cracked ice, for example, are the simple ingredients that make a cobbler.

RED WINE COBBLER

2 tbsp. (1 oz.) orange juice, strained
1 tsp. sugar
¼ cup (2 oz.) claret or burgundy wine
Cracked ice
2 tbsp. (1 oz.) port wine (optional)

Dissolve sugar in the orange juice in a tall glass. Add wine. Fill glass with cracked ice. Stir well. The port wine may be floated atop the cobbler. Makes 1 serving.

SHERRY COBBLER

1 tsp. sugar (more or less may be used according to individual taste)
3 ounces sherry wine
3 twists lemon peel, or
1 tbsp. lemon juice
Cracked ice

Dissolve sugar in wine in tall glass. Add lemon peel or lemon juice. Fill glass with cracked ice. Stir well and serve with straws. Makes 1 serving.

Syrups, liquid and powdered flavors, the leftover juice from canned fruits, all mix with sparkling water for good drinks, too. Combine fresh fruit juices for different flavor. Peaches, good and good for you, are plentiful during the summer months, and you will want to use them in every way possible. Did you ever think of using a crushed fresh peach in a drink? Here's how to do it.

FRESH PEACH SPARKLE

Allow a small peach, or half of a large peach for each drink. Plunge the peaches into boiling water to loosen skin; peel and slice. Sprinkle with sugar and add the juice of half a lime for each drink. Mix well and crush with a wooden spoon. Let stand at least 10 minutes. Place the mixture in tall glasses, add a small amount of sparkling water and stir well. Add ice cubes and fill the glasses with sparkling water. Serve with iced-tea spoons. A ball of vanilla or chocolate ice cream may be added, in which case omit the ice.

Always be sure the sparkling water is well chilled before using, and serve drinks frosty cold.

LEMON AND LIME

½ cup lime juice
1-3 cup lemon juice
½ cup sugar syrup

Combine the lemon and lime juice and syrup, blending well. Pour into tall glasses containing ice cubes and fill with sparkling water.

A time-saving trick is to use sugar syrup instead of sugar, and incidentally, it makes better and smoother drinks without waste.

Wine Cobblers

SPARKLING LEMONADE

Juice of 1 lemon
2 tbsp. sugar syrup
Sparkling water

For each drink use the juice of 1 lemon. Pour in a tall glass, add sugar syrup and stir well. Add ice and fill glass with sparkling water. For variation, crush six or seven mint leaves in the bottom of each glass before adding the lemon juice. For grape lemonade, add ¼ cup of grape juice.

If you want to make a good drink in a hurry, here is one:

CHERRY SPARKLER

2 tbsp. sugar syrup
¼ tsp. liquid cherry flavoring
Sparkling water

Measure sugar syrup into a tall glass, add flavoring and a small amount of sparkling water. Stir well, add ice and fill glass to top with sparkling water.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Friday—Now that I am back at Hyde Park, I should like to add some of the details of my visit to Lake Junaluska, which is not very far from Asheville, N. C.

Anyone familiar with that country knows that it is very beautiful and the climate delightful, but it is the atmosphere of the whole colony which pleased me. The first thing you see, on a high spot in the grounds, is a great cross which at night is illuminated.

They told me that originally, when the cross had been built, the intention was to light it up only during the summer when the conferences were in session. But the railroad men, who can see it as they pass in the night, grew so fond of it that when it was turned off they sent a petition to the board asking that it be lit every night, for it gave them food for thought and inspiration.

Of course, I saw more of Mrs. M. E. Tilly, and the various women who are secretaries of the various departments, than of any other people. I liked everyone I met and was grateful to all for their kindness.

I arrived in time to change for lunch with Mr. and Mrs. William F. Quillian. Afterwards some 30 or 40 women were invited in, and I answered some questions which Mrs. Maud M. Turpin, the public relations secretary, had prepared for this particular group. After another short rest we started out to see all the points of interest.

At the colored center I said a few words, and they sang for me. The woman's club also was holding a meeting, where we were welcomed and then taken for a short boat ride on the lake. Then supper and the big evening meeting in the auditorium.

China Benefit at Oyster Harbors

By BETTY ALDEN

EVEN VACATION schedules cannot interfere with charities these days, as evidenced by a two-day benefit sale at the Oyster Harbors Club next Tuesday and Wednesday in the interest of China relief.

Miss Lucy Drew of Cambridge, a board member of the Chinese-American Division of United China Relief in Boston, is sponsor for the event, which also includes showing Tuesday night of a new non-war film, "Here Is China."

Packages of rare Chinese tea, as well as pure silk by the yard, mandarin coats and other treasures now hard to find will be placed on sale.

Others listed with Miss Drew as sponsors include the following: Mrs. F. Delano Putnam, Mrs. Edmund J. B. Huntoon, Mrs. Pierce Pearmain, Mrs. V. Butler Barnes, Mrs. Albert W. Rockwood, Miss Margaret Dowse, Mrs. William Lloyd Garrison, Mrs. J. Mott Hallowell, Mrs. Edward C. Stone, Mrs. Edward K. Davis, Mrs. Chichester Dupont and Mrs. William H. Downey.

Marine Night At Esplanade

It will be Marine night at Arthur Fiedler's Esplanade concert tomorrow night at Hatch Memorial Shell, at the foot of Mt. Vernon st. . . . In connection with this program Keith Memorial Theater will present a radio playlet, "A Tribute to the Marines," as a prelude to the premiere showing of "Marine Raiders" at that theater on Tuesday evening . . . The entire proceeds will be donated to the Marine rehabilitation program.

Appearing in this playlet will be Mrs. Arthur Fiedler, wife of the famous conductor; Leo Foster, Eddie Kasper and vocalists Marguerite Porter, Jean Harper, Norman Dow and Theo Carreiro, Robert C. Schimmel wrote the play.

TWO WELL-KNOWNS OF THE THEATER—Charles Burrows and Edith Gresham contribute much to the comedy that has broken all endurance records for summer runs at the Colonial. It would be, of course, the refreshing, hilarious "3 Is a Family," which is proving good fun for all the family.

Bond Awards To Beauties

The winner of the "Miss Bathing Beauty for 1944" contest, sponsored by Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters, will share in prizes of $1000 in War Bonds, distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. She also will have a chance at a screen career and will receive a $300 wardrobe $100 for a week's nightclub engagement and a complete "glamorized make-up."

The semi-finals and finals will be held on the State Theater stage on Monday and Tuesday evenings, Aug. 7 and 8, during the run of Metro's gorgeous Technicolor production, "Bathing Beauty." Details of the contest may be obtained from managers of the Loew's theaters.

Quincy Joins JVA Drive to Erase Ragweed

A battle against ragweed in Quincy and its environs as part of the Junior Victory Army's campaign to rid New England of a large measure of this menace to good health will open soon by boys of the 4-H Club led by Mrs. Lawrence Peterson, Farrington st., Wollaston.

Two years ago her club members pulled three tons of ragweed which were carted away in a municipal truck. Most of it was gathered along Hobart st.

"We didn't do much last year," Mrs. Peterson explains, "because little of it was seen, but now we have seen it growing again and we'll attack it once more."

All boys and girls of New England are urged to learn what ragweed is and pull it up by the roots and destroy it whenever and wherever it is found. Now is the best time because the roots aren't firmly in the ground. Early in August ragweed will bloom with yellow flowers set in spikes and produce pollen which borne on the wind spreads misery to hay fever sufferers.

"I am glad to endorse the JVA drive against this pernicious enemy of physical fitness," Mrs. Peterson said. "If everyone does what he or she can to annihilate it, adding their activities to the organized efforts of boards of health then much will have been accomplished to make New England a healthier place in which to live."

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well-wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Sunday's Advertiser.

$5,000 Raceland Is 'Rock' Feature

By JACK CONWAY

THE $5000 ADDED Raceland Handicap over a six furlongs distance at Rockingham Park today gives New England racegoers the best rounded out program they have been offered this year. The $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap setting at Suffolk Downs had more color due to the importance of the stake and to the size of the crowd, but for all-round class the honors go to Lou Smith's little country race track today.

Eight starters have been named for the Raceland Handicap. They are Mintlock, who will probably be the favorite, Some Chance, Dream Parade, Pompeo, Diego Red, Hill Sun, Johnny Jr. and Hy-Gato.

Lou Smith

It is one of the best fields of sprinters to start in New England this year, and the battle for top honors is certain to be keen.

The Raceland Handicap has been a New England tradition. This race was named after John R. Macomber's Raceland in Framingham. Macomber, Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., Allen Wilson and a handful of men who loved racing did much to keep up interest in the sport before it was legalized in this state. John R. Macomber always conducted a meeting at Raceland, and invited his friends and neighbors to attend it as his guests.

I met Macomber at Rockingham Park on opening day. He told me he has retained all of his interest in racing and that he likes Rockingham Park better than any other track. Its country atmosphere and fine racing course appeal to Macomber.

Crack Horses Race

THE ENTIRE card today is studded with star thoroughbreds. Racing Secretary John Turner does not seem to experience any difficulty getting the best horses on the grounds for his races. In many instances there are three and four top horses in races. This means intense competition.

I have always contended that short meetings like the Summer one at Rockingham furnish better racing than a long meeting. Horsemen cannot afford to wait for spots in a three weeks' meeting. They must enter their thoroughbreds as soon as possible and strive to win purses. Otherwise they will find the meeting over and their stable in red ink.

The Framingham, a six-furlong sprint, will be run off in two sections today as a result of a record entry list. There will be a purse of $1700 for each section. There will be plenty of first class sprinters in these races.

The last three races on the card will be over the one mile and a sixteenth distance. There are many bettors who favor distance races over sprints. A horse is not put out of competition if he is bumped, breaks poorly or runs a bit wide. He has sufficient distance in which to overcome a mistake.

Meeting a Success

THE ROCKINGHAM Park meeting has proved successful. The public likes the form shown by the horses. While the favorites have done well, horses that have paid from 5 to 1 to 10 to 1 have also won their share of purses. This has given a break to those persons who like long shots.

Rest Awhile, who paid $21.80 to win, was an example of a good priced horse, while Junco, who paid $5 for the usual $2 investment, was a typical solid horse that led the field home.

Credentials opened up a big lead in the race won by Rest Awhile. At one time it looked as if Rest Awhile was hopelessly out of contention. Rest Awhile moved at a terrific clip from the head of the stretch to the mythical wire and caught Credentials just before the finish. Irving Gushen, owner, and Tommy Queen, trainer of Rest Awhile, were jubilant over the victory of their horse.

Jocks Unhurt

New England racing fans will be happy to learn that Eddie Arcaro and Johnny Longden, two outstanding jockeys and immensely popular in New England racing circles, who were thrown from their mounts in the fourth race yesterday at Jamaica were not seriously injured.

Longden was astride Dine 'N' Dance, leading by a length, when the two-year-old filly bolted into the inside rail at the sixteenth pole. Longden was knocked off. Dine 'N' Dance then cut into the path of Arcaro, up on Grant Thorn's Meadow Maid. Meadow Maid stumbled, throwing Arcaro. It was announced later that both escaped with a shaking up.

Pirates to Close Braves Stand

Unless they are able to pull themselves together and snatch the odd game of their series with the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Braves will show a deficit for the current home stay, which will wind up next Tuesday.

Starting with a single game this afternoon, the Colemen and the Frischmen will play a five-game series. They are listed for a double-header tomorrow and single games on Monday and Tuesday. Then, following two off days, the Braves will jump over to Brooklyn to be the guests of the Dodgers on the Banks of the Gowanus for the week-end, after which they will start off their third and final swing around the mid-West.

The Braves got off to a flying start on this home stay but they folded during the past week. After a disastrous Western trip, the Braves came home and won six out of their first eight games. And, but for one bad inning in the final game with Brooklyn and a couple of home run pitches that Ben Cardoni served up to Bill Nicholson and Dom Dallessandro of the Cubs, the Colemen could have won eight straight.

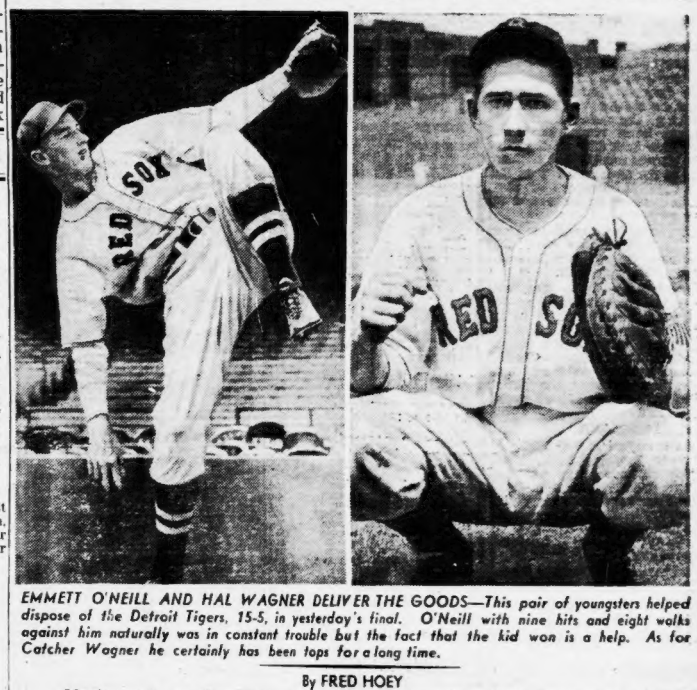
Whether this week's collapse was due to the reaction from winning the opening game from the Cardinals, when they didn't score in three games on their last visit to St. Louis, or the thoughts of Connie Ryan leaving them to join up with Uncle Sam's Navy, is conjecture. But, regardless of the cause of their plight, the Braves have lost six of their last seven games.

The Braves' defense, particularly in the outfield, has been very "Sugar Bush." Far too many fly balls, which should have been caught, were allowed to go for extra base hits. But, due to the scarcity of replacements, there's nothing that can be done to rectify matters.

Posedel Gets Ready For Another War

Bill Posedel, late of the Boston Braves, who is rounding out his third year as chief of a gun crew in the Pacific, has taken up umpiring and indicates he may return to the game in that capacity after the war.

Dashing Sox Ready for Vital Cleveland Tilts



EMMETT O'NEILL AND HAL WAGNER DELIVER THE GOODS—This pair of youngsters helped dispose of the Detroit Tigers, 15-5, in yesterday's final. O'Neill with nine hits and eight walks against him naturally was in constant trouble but the fact that the kid won is a help. As for Catcher Wagner he certainly has been tops for a long time.

By FRED HOEY

Moving onto another battle front, the Red Sox after their sweep of the Detroit series, are ready for what appears like a supreme test against the challenging and pursuing Cleveland Indians.

The Sox have gone at a swell and winning pace. In the West they have taken seven of the 11 games. The entire trip, including stops in the East, shows an 8 and 8 card, which in baseball is considered good ball if a team can break even on the road. The Sox and Yanks, tied for second, are 3½ games behind the leading Browns.

The hustling Sox gain a respite today which is more of a help. Last night they took the boat ride from Detroit to Cleveland. Today they lay off and ready up for the big series which opens with a Cleveland double-header tomorrow.

The complete subjugation of the Tigers, three wins and a tie, has given the Red Sox the zip and poise to move onto even greater accomplishments. What would be nicer than a sweep, or even taking the odd game from the Indians?

The story of the Sox-Tiger series just concluded wouldn't be complete without due credit being bestowed upon such operatives as Pete Fox and Catcher Hal Wagner.

That amazing 35-year-old "youngster" who once wore Detroit spangles gathered nine hits against his old teammates in the recent series. Pete is second to league leader Bobby Doerr in batting with a .329 average. Bob is batting .336. It certainly would be revealing to learn what sort of vitamins Old Pete is taking.

Maybe dashing, debonaire Duffy Lewis, Braves' road secretary and former outfielding great, would be interested if he hears the call from the Braves, or is it the call of the wilds?

Hal Wagner behind the plate has been magnificent for the Sox in their recent drive. He has hit safely in his last nine games and lifted his average to .303. On the current trip he has knocked in 13 runs and these runs have come over when they meant something.

Wagner is shrewd and alert. Nervous and high strung he naturally is aggressive.

Swope Backs Move For Off-Course Bets

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 29 (INS)—One of the bitterest fights in recent years over sports legislation is being stirred up on the proposed plan for off-the-course betting on horse races.

Proponents of the innovation, and these include Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the New York Racing Commission, envisage legalized horse rooms scattered about New York City so that the horse players can (1) bet without going to the track and (2) at the same time bet knowing that they will be paid off on time and at track odds.

The money bet would be sent back to the track so that the state and federal governments would receive their cuts.

Those in favor of this plan ask why a man should have to go to the track to make a bet, if he is inclined to play the nags, or if he doesn't want to go to the track why should be bet his money with an illegal handbook on the street corner, thus depriving the state and federal governments of their just desserts.

DO IT IN ENGLAND

On the surface it looks like a good idea. They do it in England—which produces many of the world's finest thoroughbreds—and in France and elsewhere. In this country handbooks are things for which the operators pay a price to petty larceny politicians and policemen.

The Thoroughbred Racing Ass'n of the United States has taken a stand against off-the-course wagering.

Harry A. Parr, 3d, president of the thoroughbred racing associations said:

"Thoroughbred racing is a recognized industry, but it is primarily a traditional and established sport. The preservation of that sport must be our first consideration. The legalization of off-course betting would quickly undermine its foundation.

"The preservation of the thoroughbred horse and thoroughbred racing is of more importance. What price additional revenue if the days of racing are to be numbered?"

None will doubt the sincerity of Mr. Parr, nor the possible wisdom of what he says.

NO REAL PERIL

However, off-course betting will not destroy the thoroughbred horse and the thoroughbred breeding industry, for these things have withstood for years the conniving gamblers and track officials and crooked jockeys and trainers and owners.

Not only withstood it all, but condoned it and actually encouraged it tactitly through some of the rulings made at times when the turf would have benefitted by more realistic administration.

Georgie Drum Arlington Choice

CHICAGO, July 29 (AP)—Georgie Drum was the favorite, but Pensive, the season's forgotten horse, was the stepper to watch in today's $50,000 added Arlington Handicap.

The rich mile-and-a-quarter race in which nine starters were named was almost a perfect spot for Pensive, defeated four times since his Kentucky Derby-Preakness triumphs, to swell his 1944 earnings to almost $200,000.

The top-weighted Georgie Drum was expected to find lightly-burdened Pensive a different horse than he whipped soundly in winning the Sars and Stripes Handicap on July 4.

lookies to Duck ll Bets on Cards

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hal Trosky of the Chicago White Sox chews tobacco in bed . . . Johnny Dickshot of the same club packs in snuff and sleeps like a babe from curfew until breakfast . . . Marty McManus, the old St. Louis Brownie, is still in baseball—managing the Kenosha Comets in the American Girls Professional League . . . Herman Taylor, chilly boxing promoter, who used to smoke four packs a day, quit just like that four years ago and hasn't touched a cigarette since.

The St. Louis Cards are winning so easily and often that the baseball bookies are planning to "build a fence around 'em" so far as betting is concerned . . . George Magergurth, the umpire, had 76 professional fights before turning to baseball—and he hasn't lost a decision as an arbiter.

Introducing:

Ford Andrews, the Huronite, Huron, S. D.: "Two men are outside," an usher said to the manager just before Sunday's game. They want passes to the game—said they were friends of the umpire."

"Throw 'em out," replied the manager. "They're imposters. No umpire ever had two friends."

The Holy Cross team of New Orleans, which sent Pitcher Dick Callahan to the Boston Red Sox, and was winner of the Louisiana American Legion title with a 31-to-0 conquest of Baton Rouge, has challenged the Southern Association Pelicans, to a contest—and probably will get it . . . After Thursday night's Phillie-Card twilight double-header at Philadelphia the loudspeaker announced "no game tomorrow"—and 12,000 Phillie fans applauded.

Just 16 years ago today, July 29, 1928, the Cleveland Indians scored 17 runs in the first two innings against the World Champion Yankees . . . Samuel D. Riddle, owner of Man O'War and "Laird of Glen Riddle, Pa.," is still active around the Garden State Park race paddock despite his 83 years.

The bowlers victory legion has pledged to raise $1,000,000 during 1944-45 for recreation equipment for battle area service men. Last season the ten-pin topplers raised $187,000 which went for 200,000 decks of cards, 325,000 pocket-size fiction books, 17,254 fishing kits, 100,000 pocket-size games of various kinds, and 100,000 sewing kits. The bowling leagues also invested $248,000,000 in war bonds. Nice going, fellahs

Rigney Wins Game On Just 76 Pitches

NORFOLK, Va.—Johnny Rigney, former Chicago White Sox star, is wasting little effort in hurling for the Norfolk Training Station club. Blanking the Norfolk Air Station, 2 to 0, July 16, Rigney used only 76 pitches. He faced only 29 men, striking out one, and did not issue a walk.

Marines in Force To Attack Caseys

Seeking to revenge a defeat of two weeks ago, the Dick Casey Club, defending champion in the Boston Park League, meets the strong Marine Barracks baseball team, from the Charlestown Navy Yard, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Dorchester Town Field.

The Leatherneck team, managed by Lt. Joe Sullivan, former all-round athlete at Providence College, is composed entirely of players who have seen service in the South Pacific and are resting before going into foreign service again.

Their captain, Yar Urban, was a standout player in the Western Massachusetts League while playing for Holyoke and later was a Cardinal farm hand in the Three I League. Urban is the team's heavy sticker but lately he has been pressed for honors by Ed Pajak, a hitting pitcher who at present is boasting of a .424 average.

Dorchester fans will remember Paul Donovan, the baby of the team who was All-Scholastic on Tom Campbell's Roxbury Memorial team of two years back. Young Donovan was the outstanding schoolboy second sacker in schoolboy baseball then and, according to enthusiastic fans, he is better than ever.

$2500 Bond to Winner Of Golf Match

DETROIT, July 29 (AP)—War bonds worth $2500 await the winner of the 36-hole challenge golf match pitting the tournament sensation, Sam Byrd, against durational national open Champ Craig Wood today and Sunday at Plum Hollow Golf Club, but the Red Cross stands to be the big winner in the benefit affair.

Byrd, the home pro, carded a 68 in practice yesterday to Wood's 70. The course record 65 was set by Chick Harbert in 1941. Par is 72.

Lem Franklin Near Death

NEWARK, N. J., July 29 (INS)—Lem Franklin, Chicago heavyweight boxer who was critically injured in a Newark bout Monday night, has contracted double pneumonia and is in a critical condition under an oxygen tent in Newark City Hospital today.

Franklin has shown no improvement since he was paralyzed by a knockout blow from boxer Larry Kane, and was in a semi-conscious state all day yesterday. At his bedside were Franklin's wife, father and an 18-year-old brother, Irving, who obtained an emergency leave from the Great Lakes, Ill. Naval Training Station.

Georgie Martin to Face Very Tough Foe

WEST SPRINGFIELD, July 29—Georgie Martin, New England welterweight champion, from Boston, will meet the stiffest foe in his latest comeback when he faces "Broadway Johnny" Jones of New York here at the West Side Dog Track Monday night.

Martin has won his last seven bouts, six by kayoes and one by decision.

Steve Kronis, Boston, meets the Blond Tiger, Lowell, in the semi-final of eight rounds.

Marianapolis Bills Big Sports Schedule

PUTNAM, Ct. (AP)—Officials of Marianapolis Academy yesterday announced it would be represented during the 1944-45 academic year by football, basketball and baseball teams and that they would be coached by Jerome Ryscavage.

A few years ago under the tutelage of Vito Ananis, ex-Boston College athlete, Mirianapolis compiled a successful football record, but dropped out of athletic competition in recent campaigns.

Jockey Injures Self Playing Golf

SEATTLE, July 29 (AP)—Jockey Ralph Neves has had a variety of accidents in his racing career but yesterday was the first time he ever was grounded by—of all things—a golf game. He hurt his back on a hefty swing and developed a stiff neck.

Murray Wins Dull Tussle

NEW YORK, July 29 (AP)—Lee Q. Murray, of the Bronx, and Elbert (Turkey) Thompson, of Los Angeles, met last night in a 10-rounder before the smallest Madison Square Garden crowd of the year, and mustached Murray won what fighting occurred.

Only 5016 turned out for the tame affair, paying $11,408 to see the heavyweights push and pull each other around the ring. There was nothing resembling a knockdown, although each has scored 25 knockouts.

Murray, weighing 206¾, reared six inches over his barrel-chested foe who came in at 207¼. Handicapped by Murray's advantage in reach and height, Thompson put his head down and bore in and then did nothing about it except clinch after getting inside.

Hilarity was added when Murray slipped and fell on a wet spot in the ninth, and Thompson duplicated in the tenth.

Weight Galore On All-Star Team

CHICAGO, July 29 (AP)—There'll be plenty of heft in the college all-star forward wall against the Chicago Bears in the annual charity football clash at Dyche Stadium August 30.

Most recent additions to the collegiate squad which now numbers 20 were George Hecht, 240-pound guard from the University of Alabama, and Jack Okland, 212-pound tackle from the University of Utah. Hecht is topped in weight by Clyde Johnson, 260-pound tackle from the University of Kentucky, who was nominated earlier this week.

Sox May Train In Hawaii

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29 (AP)—Major league baseball clubs may pitch their spring training camps in the Hawaiian Islands and Honolulu may be represented by a club in the Pacific Coast League—after the war, of course.

Eugene Burns, Associated Press war correspondent, writes:

"Joe Cronin, Boston Red Sox manager, has already written Earl Vida, manager of the Hawaii Baseball League, that he (Cronin) has picked out Honolulu for his spring training camp.

"There is strong talk out here of forming a team to join the Pacific Coast League. After the war, Pacific air travel ought to deliver teams to and from Honolulu in less time than it now takes them to go from Hollywood to Seattle by train."

Connie Smythe Badly Wounded

Toronto, July 29 (AP) — Maj. Connie Smythe, manager of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, has been severely wounded in France a dispatch today in the Toronto Daily Star, from its war correspondent Frederick Griffin, said. Griffin said Smythe is back in England following an enemy bombing attack some nights ago.

Griffin wrote that Major Smythe was in charge of an anti-aircraft battery defending French bridges held by Canadian troops. During the attack an ammunition truck was hit and Smythe led some of his boys with fire fighting equipment.

Just then two German planes swung low, dropping bombs and machine-gunning the Canadians.

Smythe was knocked out by a fragment of explosive in his back.
